

FOREWORD

For some time now, I have left the Baldwin genealogy idle in my files. After spending many hours examining references, published and unpublished genealogies of the Baldwin's, legal documents in several counties in New Jersey (the claimed birthplace of Josiah), I came up "shut out" of new information and set this effort aside.

In 2008, by a stroke of pure luck, I "surfed the web" and came across an advertisement for photographs of the grave stones of Revolutionary War military personnel. I immediately sent an E-mail note to that address, knowing that Josiah probably had some role in the war effort. I included the information my father had gathered on Josiah's family. At 11:30 P.M. that night my phone rang, it was a Mr. Daryl Verstraite from New York. He had just returned home from work (at 2:30 A.M. ET) and found my Email. After a brief discussion he said he thought he had some information on Josiah. Indeed he did! While we were talking he was looking through records and said, "Oh, yes. I have photographs of Josiah's stone and also that of his wife, Martha, would you like me to send them to you?" They were here on my computer in fifteen minutes. (Sec. 13) Mr. Verstrait had, as a hobby, photographing New York State's cemeteries containing the remains of the veterans of that conflict. He had visited the cemetery in Mentz, Cayuga County, New York, and had taken pictures there. The dates on the stones were exactly the dates my father had written down. A break through!

Next I wrote to the Cayuga County records office for any legal documents which might have been filed by or for him. A copy of his last will and testament, various papers filed with respect to the estate, and a sworn affidavit Josiah himself made, outlining his war services were photo-copied to me. (Sec. 11)

I then wrote to the County offices of Essex and Morris counties in New Jersey. They had one Josiah Baldwin in their records from Orange, New Jersey. They had no record of any Josiah Baldwin, 1757, in Hanover, Morris, New Jersey. My requests were sent to the county librarian. She was helpful regarding the Josiah in Orange and sent me all of the information she had on him. I was able to develop a genealogy for that Josiah. (Sec. 9) The evidence was strong that this Josiah was NOT our Josiah.

My next contact was with a David Baldwin, now retired and living in Florida. It turns out that he had information on a Josiah Baldwin in Bridport, Addison, Vermont. Apparently, in tracing his own line, it led to Bridport. He had copies of land purchases and sales involving a Thomas and Josiah Baldwin which he graciously sent to me. (Sec. 12) I have included copies of the original documents followed by a "translation" from script writing to the printed word. In addition, he had prepared a list of possible children of Thomas. Unfortunately, his list omitted the name Josiah, but David said its very possible that Josiah was his son.

One more step, I obtained a copy of an application for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution for a Sally Baldwin Gerber. These applications are scrutinized to make sure the applicant is qualified. Clearly Sally's genealogy went back to Josiah Baldwin and contained exactly the same information regarding his birth, home, moves and descendants. Sally's ancestors followed a line from Josiah's (1757) eldest son, Thomas, while ours are the descendants of Josiah's second son, James. (Sec. 16, 14)

While this is a rather long foreword, I thought it was an important way to show that small bits of new information can open a door which was apparently sealed shut. I hope you all enjoy reading about your genetic history, the Baldwin line.

The name, through the centuries, has undergone many different spellings including Baldoun, Baldwynne, Baldwyn, Baldewyn, and Baldwin. Baldwin of Iron Arm was the founder of Burgundy in 840 A.D. His descendants ruled the Duchy of Flanders. Matilda, daughter of the Duke of Flanders, married William the Conqueror. The name appears in the roll of Battle Abbey (1).

After the conquest in 1066, the Duke became the Earl of Normandy (2). The family is traced through Earl of Flanders to Godfrey de Buillon, leader of the only successful crusade against Jerusalem. Some sources indicate that Baldwin de Buillon resided in England during the conquest and possibly is the common ancestor for the English Baldwins (2). The Buillon lineage from earlier times is noted in the next section, "The Baldwin Genealogy."

The work of Bower (3) on the descent of Matilda of Flanders provides much information on the Baldwin ancestry. The genealogy after Charlemagne follows:

THE DERIVATION OF "BALDWIN" SURNAME AND EARLY HISTORY: FROM CHARLEMAGNE TO WILLIAM I

The name "Baldwin" comes from the old German or Scandinavian meaning conqueror or victor. From the syllable "Bald" quick and speedy, and the "win" signifying victor or conqueror, as "all win" or "all conqueror." The name appears as early as 672 in records. One of the names to appear in history is Baldwin, son of Gan, a young French knight, killed in the Battle of Roncevalles, 778 A.D. (the Basque ambush of Charlemagne's army as they moved through the Pyrennes back to France. All of the knights who were under attack were killed including Roland)

The name, through the centuries, has undergone many different spellings including Baudouin, Baldewyne, Baldwyn, Baldewin, and Baldwin. Baldwin of Iron Arm was the founder of Burges in 837 A.D. His descendants ruled the Dukedom of Flanders. Matilda, daughter of the Duke of Flanders, married William the Conqueror. The name appears in the roll of Battle Abbey. (1)

After the conquest in 1066, the Baldwin's became the Earls of Devonshire(2). The family is traced through Earls of Flanders to Godfrey de Buillon, leader of the only successful crusade against Jerusalem. Some sources indicate that Baudewyn de Brugge appeared in England during the conquest and probably is the common ancestor for the English Baldwins(2). The Baldwin lineage from earlier times is noted in the next section, "The Baldwin Genealogy."

The work of Sewell(3) on the descent of Mathilda of Flanders provides much information on the Baldwin ancestry. His genealogy after Charlemagne follows.

Generation 1. Louis I (the pious), Emperor of the West, born August, 778 A.D. Louis succeeded Charlemagne as Emperor of the West. Under Frankish Law, Charlemagne's empire was to be divided among his three sons, Pepin I, Charles the younger, and Louis I.

The death of Pepin I, King of Italy (810 A.D.) and Charles the Younger, who died in 811 A.D., left Louis I, King of Aquitaine as the only heir. Louis married in 798, Irmingard of Hesbain.

Children: Lothair I, Holy Roman Emperor, 795 – 855 A.D.

Pepin I, King of Aquitaine, 797 – 838 A.D.

Louis II, King of the East Franks, 805-876 A.D.

Louis I set out to establish his empire according to Christian principles. He ordered Bishops to stop wearing military attire and expelled women of "loose" morals from the court. He tried to centralize the legal system but his vision of one empire with one ruler, one people and one law failed to succeed. Louis married Judith of Bavaria in 819 A.D.

Children: Charles II the Bald, King of the West Franks 823 – 877
Gisell

Upon Louis's death, the empire was divided into three parts:

Charles the Bald received the West Frankish Kingdom,

Lothair, The Kingdom of Lothair

Louis, the German, East Frankish Kingdom.

Generation 2. Charles the Bald, 823 – 877

m. Ermentrude, daughter of the Count of Orleans

Children:

Adela, 1065 – 1115

Generation 11. Robert II, 1065 – 1111

m. Clemence of Burgundy, 1071 – 1134

Children:

Baldwin VII, 1093 – 1119

William, 1094 – 1109

Generation 12. Baldwin VII

m. Havise of Brittany

While this work illustrates the important role of the Baldwins during the middle ages, no direct connection has been found to the pre-colonial Baldwins of Buckinghamshire or other English shires.

The Baldwin Ancestral Direct Line

1259 A. D. – 2008 A. D.

Prepared by Robert L. Jackson

Revised, 2009

Tracing back the ancient history of any surname is a difficult task to be sure. Records are in short supply and difficult to access. Frequently the researcher must turn to the writings of historians who have specialized in researching people, customs, and locations from ancient writings. It is particularly difficult to bridge the gap from the American Colonial Period to the European roots of any particular surname. Fortunately, our colonial information is very strong. The surnames of Lawrence, Jackson, Baldwin, Stanton, Cleveland and Sherman all have colonial roots in America. Much of that information is accessible, accurate and available over the Internet.

While the information contained in this listing is as accurate as possible, it does contain elements we might call "a leap of faith." We have made an attempt to identify those "beliefs" by an asterisk (*). The dates that are included generally represent the best possible estimate when that information was not available. As we proceed toward the present day in our listing, more and more information became available. This information has not been included in this writing, but rather transcribed in separate books on each surname. However, there are certain descendants in the direct line genealogy who, in some way, have distinguished themselves from others, either positively or negatively. They will be discussed briefly within the body of the genealogy.

Some of the most interesting historical branches include the Fitzalan line which joins the House of the Plantagenet Royalty (genealogically) in the early 14th century, the House of Angouleme and the Taillefer Kings back to the late 8th century, and lastly, the branch containing such notables as William I, Conqueror and Charlemagne. Chart B-1, included in my file of charts, represents all of these major branches on one large sheet. We are fortunate that the English heritage we share provides us with a large amount of data, much of it from original sources. Keep in mind that this country was controlled by the King for over 150 years, ending with the Revolutionary war. Later immigrations from other countries such as Germany, Italy and the Scandinavian Countries brought rich traditions but very little "old country" information.

The Baldwin Surname Direct Line starts with John Baldewyne, 1259 A.D. Although there were "Baldwins" involved in earlier times, there seems to be no evidence that connects John (1259) to those Baldwins. However, time and additional research could show a connection.

NOTE: Many Baldwin references indicate that Josiah Baldwin (1701) was the father of Josiah Baldwin (1757). This seems highly unlikely due to the age discrepancy between the two. We now have proof that the Thomas Baldwin, (1736), is in fact Josiah's (1757). The record shows that Thomas (1736), his eldest son Josiah (1757) and Josiah (1701) moved from New Jersey to Bridport, Vermont about 1788-89.

This was the last entry in a direct line of ancestors with the Baldwin surname and represents the union of the two surnames, Baldwin and Lawrence. Much information on the nieces and nephews of Martha Baldwin is available and can be found in the family descendants of James Baldwin and, more recently, Thomas Baldwin (1736)

The siblings of Robert L. Jackson, namely Doris Spetch, Vivian Skoog, Joan Ripple, Jerald H. Jackson, and Roger O. Jackson, can simply replace Robert and descendants with their own "branch" of the family whose information is already at their disposal.

There are at least three additional branches that have some significance in our history. The first of these, working backward from the present day, occurs late in the fourteenth century. A young woman, Alice Fitzalan, born in 1385, married a Bartholomew Collinridge. (1) They had a daughter, Ursula, born in 1420. She married Geoffrey Dormer creating a Dormer connection to the Fitzalans. They had a son, William Dormer, born in 1445. He married Jane Launcelyn in 1475. Finally, William and Jane Dormer had a daughter, Agnes, born in 1482, who married John Robert Baldwin, born in 1470. Thus these few generations provide a Baldwin-Fitzalan link to 2nd great grandmother Martha Baldwin, (1818 – 1907)

(NOTE: The above marriage of Richard and Eleanor will move us to the second major branch, through the Plantagenets)

This connection had to be made, working backward from the marriage of Richard "the Copped Hat" Fitzalan and Eleanor de Lancaster Plantagenet. Richard had married first, Isabel de Despenser, born 09 Feb 1320/21. Although one son was born to this marriage, Edmund Fitzalan, the marriage was doomed from the beginning. Following the execution of her father in 1326 and her grandfather at the same time, it is believed that Richard's wife had no further value to him and he wanted to get rid of her. To do it "properly" he appealed to the Pope and the marriage was annulled on 04 Dec 1344 by papal mandate. Supposedly this annulment was granted on the grounds that both parties were not of age and the marriage was performed without their consent. Isabel's grandfather was executed by hanging at age 90.

Since there are "breaks" in the blood lines of some of the royalty involved, it was necessary to start the "upward" movement at an earlier point in the lineage. There is little question that William I, The Conqueror had a genetic connection with the Plantagenets. The result of tracing this connection is found below.

Note: Henry I's only son William, drowned at age 17. To insure blood lines to the next generation among other reasons, Henry arranged the marriage of his daughter, Matilda, to Geoffrey V, Count of Anjou. Their sons, Henry (1155), Richard, the lion-hearted (1157), (1158), and John (1167) clearly disliked each other making this family the "soap opera" of the 12th century!

THE BALDWIN'S IN COLONIAL AMERICA

Revised, 2010

John Baldwin, IV (Senior) our 9th great grandfather Baldwin, was born at Aston-Clinton, Buckinghamshire, England on 24 Jun 1619. Some sources indicate his birth occurred in the village of Wendover. In any case, Buckinghamshire was the historic county of residence for the Baldwin family. Very little, if any, information is available on the childhood life of John. England itself was in much turmoil. King James I had imposed his belief in the divine rights of kings upon the English population, demanding they use his forms and rituals. Non-conformists were threatened and many fled to Holland. When John Baldwin was 6 years old, Charles I took the kingship. Charles was vehemently opposed to the Puritans which did not please the Puritan Parliament. On three occasions, he abolished Parliament altogether. He was sympathetic to the Catholics which further antagonized the Puritans who had been trying to "purify" the Anglican Church.

A series of family deaths ultimately led to John's decision to seek a new life in a new Colony. His grandmother, Alice Kinge Baldwin named young John in her will dated 1622. His Uncle Richard left him funds in 1633. John's only brother, Richard, died unmarried in 1634 leaving John as the only heir. John probably inherited the estate of his father, John III, who passed on in 1637. These events provided him with the funds necessary to complete the journey to America, bringing with him a number of family members. The Baldwins set sail on the ship "Martin" in 1637-38. His cousin Sylvester, Sylvester's wife Sarah Bryan Baldwin and their six children made the journey with him. There may have been other Baldwins on this particular journey but the passenger list only showed Sylvester. A tragic event occurred on shipboard when Sylvester died suddenly. He was buried at sea. Sylvester's Will (which John had witnessed) was proved in Boston, Massachusetts on the 4th of July 1639.

Sarah settled in New England and became one of the largest landowners. She married Capt. John Astwood, a leading citizen of Milford. Capt. Astwood, while serving as an agent of the Colony, died in London.

Sarah and Sylvester were Puritans and all of their children were baptized in Buckinghamshire prior to their journey to America. John Baldwin, Sr. was not baptized as a Puritan (usually meaning a Presbyterian or Congregationalist) as a youngster.

John spent some time in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, then moved on to Milford in the New Haven Colony. John married his first wife, Mary Camp, in 1639. Mary, daughter of Nicholas Camp (1597-1652) and Sarah Elliott was born in Hazing, Essex, England in ~1620. He was an original settler of Milford recorded on the map of 1646. Nicholas was at Watertown, Massachusetts for a time, then at Wethersfeld, Connecticut, and in 1638 appeared in Guilford, Connecticut. As early as 1646 he had a house, and a lot of 6 acres in Milford. His name is on the list of free planters of Milford dated 20 Nov 1639. He joined the Milford Church 02 Nov 1643. Records show he was taxed on one hundred ninety-nine pounds, the property value, in 1686. He died in Milford in 1706.

The marriage of John and Mary Camp took place in Milford, New Haven Colony. They had six children. The last child, Joseph, was born on 09 Nov 1651 in Milford. The death of Mary in 1651 might have been caused by complications occurring before or after childbirth.

With six children to care for, John married Mary Bruen. A record from the Milford, Connecticut Vitals reads, "John Baldwin, Senior married Mary Bruen, Daughter of John Bruen, of Pequot, Connecticut." The date would be 13 Oct 1653. Pequot was renamed New London.

John Bruen, Mary's father, was a well-known English Puritan and is mentioned in the record above. He died in England and Mary was living with her distinguished brother, Obadiah Bruen. Mary was baptized in Tarvin, Cheshire, England on 14 Jun 1622. Seven additional children were born to this marriage. Several other sources provide a different view of Mary's heritage. One view claims that Mary Bruen was the daughter of Obadiah Bruen and Sarah Seeley (or Lawrence). Obadiah settled in Gloucester, Massachusetts. Sarah and Obadiah married in 1640, moved to New London, Connecticut in 1651, finally settling in Newark, New Jersey in 1666. He was a selectman representative at the General Court in Gloucester. He also served as town clerk for New London for 15 years. Obadiah was one of the founding fathers of Newark, New Jersey. His name was added to the list of people signing the original agreement to form a common township in Newark. This view shows Mary's lineage as follows:

Johan Bruen – Mary Ottery

Thomas Holford – Jane Booth

John Bruen I

Lady Dorothy Holford

John Bruen II

Anne Fox

Obadiah Bruen

Sarah Seeley

Mary Bruen

John Baldwin, Sr.

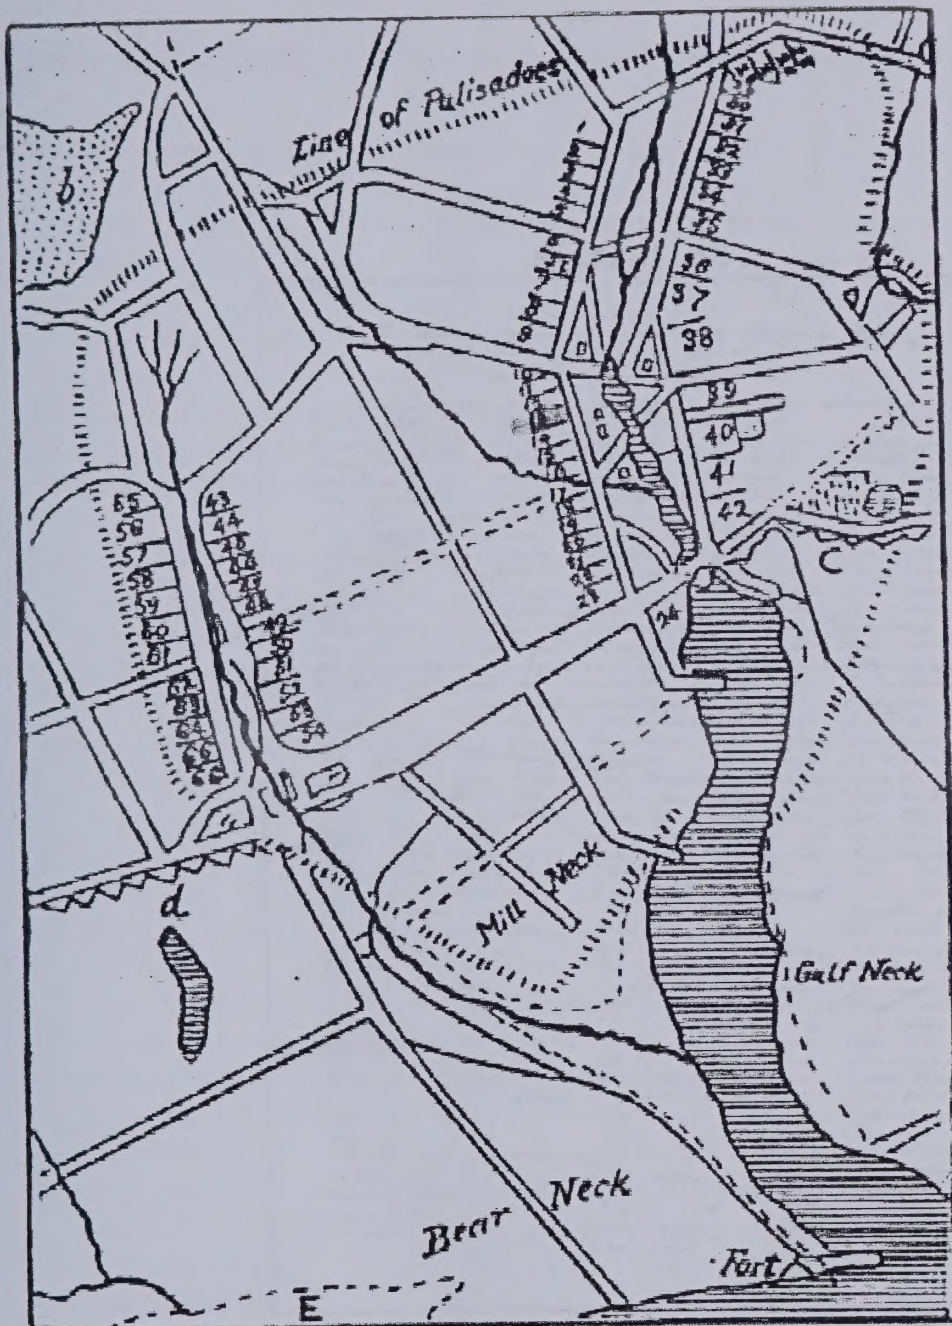

When John settled in Milford, he was referred to as "John Baldwin, the settler" in the first list of residents. Because John was not a member of the church, he could not be called a "free planter." He was not alone in the settlement as a settler, but he and his compatriots generated much controversy in Milford before the town was admitted to the New Haven jurisdiction in 1643. Although he was not a church member and therefore not entitled to the franchise or to hold office, he did serve in some official capacities. On 19 Mar 1648, John joined the church and on the following Sunday, 26 Mar 1648, four of his children were baptized. (The strict Puritan rule that the parent must be a member of the church before children can be administered baptismal rites was rigidly enforced in Milford.)

Now as a church member in good standing, he was accepted as a freeman. The Baldwin homestead in Milford was situated on original lot number 13, on the map of 1646, on the "west side of the river," a little northwest of the town hall. (see the accompanying map of 1646.) After 1666, John moved to Newark, New Jersey, then returned to Milford. He was sergeant of the military company in 1658.

Milford was organized in 1638. Greene(7), records the purchase:

"William Fowler, Edmund Tapp, and Zachariah Whitman, together with Benjamin Fenn and Alexander Bryan, bought the land lying between the East River and the Hoisatonic Sea South, and the Indian Path to Pangusset. The deed was taken in trust for the body of 57 planters and in consideration of '6 coats, 10 blankets, 1 kettle, 12 hatchets, 12 hoes, 2 dozen knives and 12 small glasses (mirrors)' was solemnly confirmed by Ansantaway's passing over to the white men a piece of turf wherein he set a twig to symbolize surrendering of the soil and all that grew thereon."

The town immediately established itself as a theocracy, ruled by the tenets of the Congregational Church of the day. It developed into one of the most conservative of all the Puritan colonies. It appears that the biggest problem for many of the puritans was the stance on baptism. As stated earlier, baptism of children could only be administered if the parents were church members. The Milford settlement enforced high standards of behavior, especially on Sunday. In 1665, the New Haven Colony of which Milford was a member and the Connecticut Colony, were joined under the Royal Charter of King Charles II. This was done without the knowledge of the colonists and in direct opposition to their expressed values. While it was necessary to cede to the King and pledge allegiance to the royal throne, the New Haven colonists began to look around for another site, more in tune with their beliefs. The new constitution allowed baptism of children irrespective of parent church membership. This was most disturbing to the strict members of New Haven. They began to search out sites more amenable to their customs, desires, and aspirations. The search led to an area in this country occupied by the Dutch. To make a long story short, the proprietors in what is now New Jersey, John Berkeley and Sir George Carteret signed a constitution called "The Concessions and Agreement of the Lords Proprietors of Nova Caesares, to and with all of the adventurers and all such as shall settle and plant here." Concessions allowed settlers the right to choose an assembly of twelve representatives who would deal with taxes, laws, forts and militia, land apportionments, naturalization of immigrants and the right of appeal any action taken by the governing council. The move was eminent since Charles II renounced New Haven's existence as a colony, and to cede their independence to the Colony of Connecticut.

Trumbull says, "The wisdom of our venerable ancestors provided for the freedom and liberty of themselves and their posterity. Thus did they guard against every encroachment on the rights of the subjects."

In 1666, a party from Milford which included John Baldwin Sr and John Baldwin , Jr., traveled down the Long Island Sound to the banks of the Passaic to choose a site. Residents of Branford (a settlement akin to Milford) and Milford of the New Haven Colony signed the agreement to form a common township at New Ark on the Pesaiack River. While they had the approval of the proprietors to settle there, the Hackensack Indians presented another problem. The puritans had not bargained for a deed as they had done in Milford. IN July 1667, the Puritan settlers signed a bill of sale with the Hackensacks, purchasing their settlement for ~ $750.00 worth of goods. So, on 6 Oct 1666, the charter of the settlement of Newark was Signed. (the addendum of names is found at the end of this section.)

John Baldwin, IV, left Newark and moved back to Milford where he spent his remaining days. John's Will, dated 24 May 1681, bequeathed to eldest son John, sons Josiah, Nathaniel, Joseph, George (to have 20 pounds which I desire should be laid out for the following up his trade), Obadiah, and Richard; daughters Elizabeth Porter, Abigail Baldwin, Sarah and Hannah. The heirs Joseph, Obadiah, Sarah and Hannah submitted the inventory to arbitration in 1691, son Richard consenting to the decision. George, though living in Branford, Connecticut, is not mentioned in the document.

The following is an accurate synopsis of the instrument :

L. S. TO ALL PEOPLE to whom these presents shall come: The Governour and Company of ye English Colony of Connecticut, in New England, in America, send Greeting. Know Ye that whereas all the lands contained within these abutments; viz., the Sea South, with the dividing lines between the towns of New Haven and Milford, from the middle of the mouth of Oyster river to Beacon Hill river, Easterly; with Beacon Hill river, Northerly; and on the Westward side thereof with the lines which divide between the Towns of Milford and Derby, and with the middle of the Housatonic river, were the greater part purchased of the Indian, native proprietors, before the Letters Patent of Connecticut was obtained from King Charles the 2d, of blessed memory, and possessed without interruption for seventy-six years and upwards; and that other parts since lawfully purchased of the Indian proprietors, by the inhabitants of Milford, viz.: the lands north of Bladen's brook were added to the township, in 1693, by the Governour and Company since the grant of the Charter of Connecticut—and the proprietors of said Milford now moving to us the Governour and Company, for the more sure making and firm establishment of their rights to said lands, whether holden by them in Fee simple or Fee tail, or as Tenants in common, joint Tenants or Parceners;

Now Know Ye: That we the said Governour and Company in General Court assembled, by virtue of the LETTERS PATENT to us given, under the great seal of England, by our Sovereign Lord, King Charles the second, of blessed memory, do by these presents fully and absolutely, for us and our successors, give, grant, remise, and release, and altogether for us and our successors do quit claim, ratify, approve, and confirm in the quiet, peaceable, and firm seizen and possession of Major Samuel Eells, Mr. Samuel Andrew, Mr. Robert Treat, Mr. Jonathan Law, Mr. Thomas Clark, Ensign George Clark, Ensign Jobamah Gunn, Capt. Joseph Treat, Lieut. Joseph Peck, Lieut. Benjamin Fenn, Serg. Zachariah Baldwin, Mr. Samuel Clark, Jun., Ensign Samuel Gunn, and all and every person whose names are found in a schedule hereunto affixed, the whole right, title, and claim, which we have had or have in and to all the aforesaid tract of land bounded as aforesaid, with all the Islands within the said tract of land, viz.: Milford Island, Edward Wooster's Island, Whitman's Island, and Duck Island, with the woods, minerals, buildings, and all other appurtenances, and hereditament; to them and every of them, their heirs and assigns forever, according to their several rights and shares, as may be seen by the records of the town of Milford, reference thereunto being had, To HAVE and TO HOLD to their own proper use and behoof forever; To HOLD—of her Majesty, her heirs and successors, according to the tenure of East Greenwich, in the County of Kent, in England, in free and common socage, yielding and paying therefor to her Majesty and successors forever, the fifth part of all the ore of Gold and Silver, which shall there, hereafter be gotten, in lieu of all services, duties, and demands whatsoever, according to the Charter granted to us, the Governour and Company.

In witness whereof we have caused the Seal of the Colony to be hereunto affixed, and the Governor and Secretary of the said Colony have hereunto subscribed their names, this twenty-second day of May, Anno Domini One Thousand seven hundred and thirteen—

John Baldwin, Junior, our 8th great grandfather was born in Milford, Connecticut in 1640. Again, little is known about John's childhood. We know that he was baptized at age 8 in 1648, probably by the Rev. Peter Prudden. John had been accepted to full communion at the Milford church on 08 Oct 1662. Like his father, John was caught up in the conflict between the New Haven Colony and those colonies with a more liberal stance on church law. While some claim that the move to Newark was to escape the strict Puritan's church law, evidence seems to point to the contrary. Those that came to Newark brought with them the strong desire for a "true" theocracy, one that would not be influenced by other more liberal colonies. He joined his father in helping to establish the common township at Newark and was one of the signers of the original agreement of 30 Oct 1666.

"Whereas the original deed of sale made by the Indians to the inhabitants of the town of Newark, bearing the date the eleventh day of July, 1667, it is said to the foot of the great Mountaine, called Watchung, alias Atchunck, Wee Winocksop and Shenoctos, Indians and owners of the said Great Mountaine, for and in consideration of two guns, three coats, and thirteen hans of rum, to us in hand paid the receipt Whereof wee doe hereby acknowledge, doe Covenant and declare to and with Mr. John Ward and Mr. Thomas Johnson, Justices of the Peace of the said towne of Newark, before the Right Honorable Philip Carteret, Esq., Governor of the province of New Jersey, and other witnesses hereunder written, that it is meant, agreed, and intended that their bounds shall reach or goe to the top of the Great Mountaine, and that wee the said Indians will mark out the same to remaine to them the said inhabitants of Newark, theirs or Assigns forever. In witness thereof Wee the said Indians have hereunto sett our hands and Seales the 13th of March, 1677-8.

As the town grew, demand for more land increased. "At a town meeting in Newark, October 2, 1699 it was agreed that they would endeavor to make a purchase of a track of land lying Westward of our bounds, to the South Branch of the Passaick River, and such of the town as do contribute to the purchasing of the said land, shall have their Proportion according to their contribution. Mr. Pierson and Ensign Johnson are chosen to go meet with the proprietors about the same, to obtain a grant.' The tract of land was never obtained from the proprietors by Mr. Pierson and Ensign Johnson. This did not deter the townsfolk who were determined to buy the land at Horseneck directly from the Indians. In 1701 they drew up the agreement which would govern the proposed purchase:

"This third day of September, one Thousand Seven Hundred and one said Committee to lay down so much money or moneys upon the demand of ye Committee aforesd to defray and pay for the aforesd land and premises and all such Charges as shall necessarily accrue thereunto according to our proportion by our subscription.

We, the aforesd subscribers do covenant and agree with each other and the aforesd committee that the aforesd land shall be purchased and paid for by us the subscribers and so shall be held and continued as our just rights either general or particular allotments as the major part shall agree from time to time and that none of ye as purchasers their heirs or assigns shall at any time appropriate any of ye sd lands or premises by any manner of way or means but by allotments fairly and legally drawn as the part of the subscribers shall agree, and if any subscribers for one lott his right shall be according, such as subscribe for two Lots or for three lots their rights shall be according, and when the major part of ye subscribers shall agree to come to allotments that then he or they that have more than one Lot, shall draw severally according to ye number of their lots subscribed for and shall have their land as it falls to them by allotment.

And for the confirmation of each and every article thing or things aforesd the subscribers for ourselves our heirs, Executors, administrators, and assigns, do by these presents bind and Oblige ourselves unto each other to stand to ratify and confirm each article and thing aforesd.

In confirmation hereof we the Subscribers have voluntarily and unanimously set to our hands the day and year above written."

The 3rd of September 1701, this agreement was executed by 101 persons- one hundred men and one woman, Elizabeth Ogden, who divided the land to be purchased into 117 lots. Negotiations were started with the Indians of the Horseneck region and a deed was struck on March 6th, 1702, contrary to the laws dealing with land purchases (enacted by the Colonies in 1683 and 1703). The Newark committee of John Treat, Jasper Crane the Harrisons, John Baldwin and others "did make, seal, and execute a good, lawful Deed or instrument Conveyance of and for a certain tract of land in the County of Essex between the top of the First Mountain (so called) and the Pasaick River, beginning at the mouth of Pine Brook (so called) and thence running up the said river unto Menusen path (so called) except a small Tract lying by the river."

The amount paid for the tract was 130 pounds. The Deed was signed by the Indians: Loantique, Tophow, Manshum and several others.

The proprietors ruled that the Indian Deeds were illegal. They apparently sought to negotiate a peaceful settlement with the Indian deed settlers. Letters were sent to the settlers outlining plans of agreement. These were rejected by the settlers and the proprietors began the eviction process as demanded by the law. On September 19, 1745, Samuel Baldwin of the Horseneck area was evicted and taken to prison in Newark. The charge was trespassing. Samuel was a woodcutter and had chopped down a tree on what he thought was his own property. A large group of settlers came to the prison and freed him by use of force, then marched back to Horseneck, continuing with riotous behavior. This was the beginning of a long series of riots against the proprietors. Riots spread into neighboring counties. The riots were classified as rebellion against the motherland, and carried serious penalties. Proprietors called it treason. The settlers answered these charges with plausible arguments, but to no avail. Cases reached the high court and the ruling was in favor of the proprietors. Many of the settlers lost their land, others paid for their land. It is quite possible that the Samuel Baldwin arrested could have been the son or Grandson of John Jr. Records indicate that John Jr. was one of several settlers trying to purchase the Horseneck property for the town of Newark.

EPOLOGUE:

There is little question that the settlers were convinced that their claims were valid and they hung tenaciously to the land they had purchased. Through disputes, arrest, indictments, court arraignments, convictions, and penalties, they hung on as life continued to be a nightmare for them. The end came in June, 1755, when the following were placed on trial, having been indicted by the Supreme Court. Twenty-eight settlers were convicted- all subjected themselves to the mercy of the court, but eight were fined 5 shillings each, released, compelled to deposit 100 pounds to ensure good behavior for three years.

Jonathan Squire, John Vincent, Thomas Williams, Sam Crowell and Nathaniel Williams. No mention of penalties for the other 23 indictments issued. Two of the 28 arraigned were Nathan Baldwin and Enos Baldwin, who might have been descendants of John Jr.

It would be another thirty years before the revolution against the throne would occur.

John Baldwin, Jr.'s commitment to his rather strict theological beliefs are verified when, in January 1682-83, John was chosen at a town meeting to "look that the young people carry themselves orderly in times of Divine worship."

John Jr. was a shoemaker by trade, and a very good one, at that. He became a "Sealer of Leather" in 1679. Having found "Sealer of leather" in a number of different searches and not knowing that particular position, checked through the "Blue Laws" of Connecticut. One section of the published work deal with hides, tanning, and leather quality (see True Blue Laws, leather, at the end of this section.) The Sealer of Leather was responsible for making sure the leather was of good quality as examined and judged by him before it could be bought or sold. The Sealer "certifies" with a stamp that the leather is of good quality. If not, a second stamp indicates a rejection. The Sealer was selected by the leading citizens of the Colony.

Hannah Bruen, John's first wife, was born on 09 Jan 1644 in New London, Connecticut. Hannah was the daughter of Obadiah and Sarah Bruen. They were married on the 30 Oct 1663. So, referring to the two views discussed regarding Mary Bruen's parentage, John Bruen, not Obadiah was Mary's father. Hannah was Mary Bruen's niece. Hannah Bruen Baldwin died in Newark, N.J. during 1685.

Ruth Bottesforth was the daughter of Henry Bottesforth, born about 1600 in England and died in Milford, Connecticut in 1686. He was an original settler of Milford on the 1646 map. He came to Milford from Wethersfield, Connecticut.

NOTE: Much of the factual material in the Horseneck riot section of this writing has been abstracted from the scholarly research of Mr. Vorwerk, for which I express my gratitude in this note. (RLJ)

TRUE BLUE LAWS OF NEW HAVEN COLONY
J. Hammond Trumbull

"Upon consideration of the damage or injury which may sustaine by the ill coming of leather and by shoemakers ill in making up shooes and bootes, it is by this court ordered that in every plantation within the jurisdiction whether either tanner or shooemaker is imployed in their trades, one or two sealers shall be chose, and appointed, as the occasion requires, who shall be under oath, faithfully to discharge their trust, and shall seal no leather, but such as they judge sufficiently tanned and fit to be wrought out, and sold in shooes and boots. And that every plantation shall have two seals, to distinguish betwixt good leather well and sufficiently tanned, and such, though tanned enough, is in some other respect defective, either by over-liming, or for want of being well brought upon the beanie, or by frost, or hath received some damage in drying; so that though it may serve for inward or middle soals, yet not for other uses without damage to the buyer; all which leather so defective, shall besealed with a different seal, that it may be known to be faulty. But that which is not sufficiently tanned, shall neither be sealed, nor used in bootes, or shooes, til it be duly tanned. The chosing and appointing of which seal or sealers, the print or mark, which each plantation shal set upon their seal for good, or faulty leather, with the rate to be allowed for sealing being left to the several plantations, but no tanner within this jurisdiction shal upon any pretence sell, deliver, cause or suffer to be delivered, or pass out of his hands, or custody, any hide, or hides, til being fully dry, they be first sealed by the officer or officers thereunto appointed, under penalty of forfeiting the said leather, or the value of it to the plantation where the offence was committed.

And, it is further ordered, that if any shoemaker shal use, or put any unsealed leather, either in bootes, or shooes, or put any of the forementioned faulty leather (though sealed as such) in any outward soals, or upper leather, or in any other place which may behurtful to the buyer, or wearer, or shall use any other way of deceit in making up his ware, he shall make due and full recompence to the person or persons wronged, and complaining, and shall suffer such further punishment as his offence considered with circumstance shall require, and whosoever shal bring hides from any other place, and shal sell or use any of them for bootes, or shooes, contrary to the intent thereof; the hides so sold or used or value of them shal be forfeited to the plantation where the offence is committed, or such recompence or fine shall be made or paid as the case may require, provided that if both buyer and seller be faulty, they shal pay the forfeit betwixt them; but due tenderness and respect is to be had of an innocent stranger who brings, sells or uses good leather, though of want of means to know the law if it were unsealed."

Quote from Chapter VI, New Haven's Settling in New England, Laws of Governance, Hartford, 1876. pp 237 – 239 adopted 1655.

The above passage was found in answer to the question: "What is Sealer of Leather?", a position often referred to in genealogical references. Join me in now knowing!

John Baldwin III, our 7th great grandfather, was the first member of John, Jr. family to leave the confines of Newark and to take up residence in Hanover, Morris, New Jersey on the banks of the Passaic River. No special facts have been found which might have encouraged him to do so. The settlement in Newark had just been established when John III was born.

Perhaps the conflicts which existed between the settlers and the Proprietors convinced him to find a more peaceful place to raise his family. While his father continued his efforts to secure more land, John III's first son, Josiah, was born. The exact date of birth of Josiah is not known, but occurred somewhere between 1700 and 1702. Although no riots had yet occurred, the settlers knew that much tension existed between their wants and desires and those of the proprietors (see John Jr.s section)

As far as we can tell, he lived his life in Hanover, and died sometime after 1743.

In 1742, John paid his children 200 pounds to take care of him the rest of his life. He was 73 years old at that time and was living in Hanover. John died some time after 1743.

John of Hanover's wife is listed by some as Lydia Harrison. However, no proof is offered for that name or any other name.

Josiah Baldwin I, my 6th great grandfather Baldwin, was born in Hanover, Morris, New Jersey in 1701. Morris County records show much movement of the Baldwins throughout New Jersey and Connecticut. Josiah spent a number of years in Rockaway, New Jersey before moving back to the Hanover area. While little specific information can be garnered on his life and activities, he appeared to be in excellent health. When Josiah I, Thomas, and Josiah II moved to Bridport, Josiah I was 87 years old. He passed on at age 99 on 31 Jan 1800. He is interred in the Bridport Cemetery.

THE FAMILY OF THOMAS BALDWIN
1736 – 1815

Thomas Baldwin, my 5th great grandfather was born in 1736 in Morris County, New Jersey. He and his wife, Anna R. Allen, were married in Hanover, Morris, New Jersey in the Presbyterian Church on 15 Jul 1756. Anna was born in 1737 and died in 1811 in Bridport, Addison, Vermont. Thomas died on 05 Apr 1815, aged 79.

At least five children were born to this couple.

Several other children noted in the records of Bridport may be siblings. Since there are several other Baldwin's in Bridport at that time, undoubtedly siblings of Thomas (1736), it cannot be determined whether or not the uncounted children were cousins or members of Thomas and Anna's family. Here are the children in question:

Following the Revolutionary War, Thomas (1736), Josiah (1757), and Josiah (1701), and their families all relocated from Hanover, New Jersey to Bridport, Addison, Vermont. The grandfather Josiah was in his 80's at the time of the move. Thomas and son Josiah bought and sold numerous pieces of property in Bridport. (See the section, Land Transactions for details)

The reasons for the move to Bridport are not clear. A number of Baldwin's had taken up residence in and around that township earlier. These Baldwin's could have been close relatives, departing Milford and Newark seeking a better life. The fact that Thomas (1736) took his father, Josiah, at such an advanced age one might think the time had come for a return to the comforts of an extended Baldwin family. Several of Josiah's (1701) siblings were residents of Bridport. In any case, the move took place in 1789 when the younger Thomas (1785) was 4 years old and young James, our 3rd great grandfather was 2 years old.

Times were turbulent during the early 1800's. President Jefferson's Embargo Act of 1807, although totally unenforceable, caused additional damage to the economy of Vermont and certainly helped push America to the War of 1812. In addition, the ravages of epidemics of various diseases passed in waves through the Vermont landscape. Spotted Fever and Scarlet Fever were two such epidemics. It appears that the natural immune system was totally ineffective in fighting off those infected. Josiah's brother John and John's wife Mary died within days of each other in 1813; John at age 51. Josiah's second brother Lewis died one month later at age 47. It is not known whether they passed from disease or some other malady of the day.

These events and other hardships endured during that time must have been in the mind of Josiah and convinced him to move the New York. The location in Mentz, Cayuga County seemed to be a perfect spot for him and his children. It is here he spent his final days.

This page illustrates the necessity for verification of the data presented. It was taken off the internet, and was submitted to Kindredkonnektions for publication. No checks or supporting evidence is given. The data given is incomplete and can lead the novice researcher to faulty conclusions.

A reasonable bit of research would have turned up the information that Thomas Baldwin was born in 1736. Marriage records show that his wife was Anna Allen, born in Hanover, Morris, New Jersey. Certainly listing her as "unknown" is more helpful than listing the wrong person. Regarding the children listed, the only information other than the names is the birth year of Josiah, which is given as 1740. This led some genealogists to eliminate "Thomas" altogether and list Josiah I (1701) as the father of Josiah II, our 4th great grandfather. With Josiah's correct birth year, 1757, Thomas fits in beautifully.

This sheet also lists a fifth child, Jonathan. I can find no record of a Jonathan Baldwin in any of my sources.

The next sheet titled Individual Record also contains errors. Josiah's birthplace was Hanover, Morris, New Jersey, in 1757 noted on his cemetery stone. His death in 1840 in Mentz, Cayuga, New York is recorded in the county offices. His "unknown" spouse was Martha. No surname could be found. She could have been born to one of the other male Baldwins and have the surname Baldwin as a maiden name. The note regarding his "artificer" role in the revolution is true. See the section on the military records of soldiers in the revolution. (Section 10)

In an effort to substantiate the lineage of Josiah Baldwin, 4th great grandfather, I obtained a copy of the Last Will and Testament of Josiah Baldwin of Orange, Essex, New Jersey. Earlier research had shown that our Josiah Baldwin, Hanover, Morris, New Jersey had left New Jersey with his family and settled in Bridport, Addison, Vermont followed by a move to Mentz, Cayuga, New York, where he spent the rest of his life. It was possible that Josiah of Orange, N.J. could be a father or a cousin of our Josiah Baldwin.

The Will and Testament I obtained, No. 11706G, Josiah Baldwin, dated 30 January 1826, was proved 06 August 1827, and recorded in Book D of Wills, pp. 507 – 520, filed by the Surrogate Judge of Essex County, New Jersey, H. F. Randolph.

Josiah (Orange County) and his wife Lydia, had the following children born to them:

1. Abraham Baldwin, Eldest son
2. Samuel Baldwin
3. Josiah O. Baldwin
4. Rachel Baldwin Munson
5. Sarah Baldwin Harrison
6. Polly Baldwin, (wife of Cyrus Baldwin)
7. Abby Baldwin
8. Harriet Baldwin
9. Betsey Baldwin Lindsley
 - a. Josiah O. Lindsley
 - b. Lydia Lindsley
 - c. Evelina Lindsley
 - d. Abraham Lindsley

All of the above are mentioned in Josiah's (Orange County) Will.

This will clearly demonstrates that Josiah of Orange is not the father of Josiah (1757). There is a strong possibility that the two Josiah's could have been cousins, but that connection has not been found.

My initial contact in Morris County, New Jersey, was Sara Weismann, of the Morris County Library. Her note states: "...Census records show the Baldwins moving back and forth between Morris and Essex Counties. Josiah and Josiah Jr. are listed in Hanover Township through 1788. Josiah is listed back in Newark, Essex County in 1789 and in 1815, a Josiah Baldwin did a David Peck Estate Inventory in Newark." She also indicated that a Thomas Baldwin was listed in Hanover in 1780 and in 1787-88. He ends up in Newark listed as "Captain Thomas Baldwin." Additional work needs to be done on this "Thomas" Baldwin.

One more thing adds to the mystic of the Baldwins in New Jersey. Josiah's Last Will and Testament contains the following passages:

"...I give and devise to my eldest son, Abraham Baldwin and his heirs and assigns, forever, a certain lot of land purchased by me in part of Joseph Baldwin, deceased, and in part of Urah Baldwin having a wood lot of about seven acres situated in the township of Orange aforesaid lying between the Wheeler lot and the lot called the old Field, subject, however, to this charge and encumbrance. And it is expressly demised upon this condition that the said Abraham Baldwin shall pay off and discharge a certain Bond (smudged out) sixty pounds given by me to Eunice Baldwin, the daughter of the said Joseph Baldwin, deceased, and now due and owing." The unpublished research done by Olin D. Jackson, beginning in the 1930's, lists the family of Josiah (1757) Baldwin and his wife Martha. The first child on the list is Eunice Baldwin, born 24 Aug 1783, and her death as 02 Nov 1801. No other research has listed a Eunice Baldwin as a child of Josiah and Martha. It is not unusual to find early deaths omitted from the list of offspring, but would probably not be dropped for a child 18 years of age. The Family Search data has a Eunice Baldwin as born 04 Sep 1783 in Bloomfield, New Jersey and her death as 26 Nov. 1806. This record shows a marriage to Jephtha Dodd on 01 Feb 1804.

The Will is clear in its statement that Eunice Baldwin was the daughter of Joseph Baldwin, deceased at the time of the writing of the Will. I have been unable to find any information on this Joseph Baldwin. The search is complicated because of the multiplicity of the name Joseph about 1750-1820 in New Jersey.

Here is the transcript of the Last Will and Testament of Josiah Baldwin of Orange, Essex, New Jersey.

In the name of God, amen. I, Josiah Baldwin of the Township of Orange in the County of Essex and the State of New Jersey being weak in body but of sound mind, memory and understanding for which blessing I thank God, and knowing the uncertainty of life and that it is appointed unto all men once to die. Do make and publish this, my last Will and Testament in manner and form following, that is to say. First. It is my will and I do order that all my just debts and funeral expenses be paid and satisfied as soon as conveniently can be after my decease and by my son, Josiah O. Baldwin, except a debt I owe Eunice Baldwin. Item- I give and bequeath unto my wife Lydia over and above and in addition to her right of Dower in my lands at the common order, all my household furniture and one cow to be selected by her out of any that may belong to me at my death. And it is my will that this furniture and cow shall be absolutely the property of my wife and subject to her disposal at her death. Item. I give and devise to my eldest son, Abraham Baldwin, and his heirs and assigns forever a certain Lot of land, purchased by me in part of Joseph Baldwin deceased, and in part of Urah Baldwin having a wood lot of about seven acres situated in the township of Orange aforesaid, lying between the Wheeler Lot and the lot called the old Field subject however to this charge and encumbrance and it is expressly devised upon this condition that the said Abraham Baldwin shall pay off and discharge a certain Bond (blacked out on photocopy) sixty pounds given by me to Eunice Baldwin, the daughter of the said Joseph Baldwin deceased and now due and owing. Item: I give, demise, and bequeath unto my son, Samuel Baldwin, and his heirs and assigns the wood standing and growing on the Wheeler Lot to be cut down and carried off from the premises by him within two years after my decease. Item. I give and demise unto my grandchildren, Josiah O. Lindsley, Lydia Lindsley, Eveline Lindsley and Abraham Lindsley, children of my daughter Betsey, deceased, and to their heirs and assigns share and share alike a certain Lot of land called and known as the old Field, as the fence now stands. And if any of said grandchildren should die before me then my will is that this Lot of land shall be equally divided among the survivors. Item. I give and bequeath unto my brother, Jeptha Baldwin, and my two oldest sons, Abraham Baldwin and Samuel Baldwin, and the survivors of them eight hundred dollars to be paid in two years from my decease with interest annually which here I charge upon my real estate hereinafter demised to my son, Josiah O. Baldwin, and interest shall be paid by him, to be taken and received by the said Jeptha, Abraham, and Samuel Baldwin and the survivors of them in Trust to pay over the same with interest to my four following named daughters in equal shares and in the manner following to wit, to my daughter Rachel (Baldwin) Munson, wife of Caleb Munson, deceased, the sum of two hundred dollars with interest from my death, to my daughter Sarah (Baldwin) Harrison, wife of Joel Harrison, the sum of two hundred dollars with interest from my death. To my daughter Polly (Baldwin) Baldwin, wife of Cyrus Baldwin, the sum of two hundred dollars with interest from my death, and to my daughter, Abby (Baldwin) Baldwin, wife of Joel Baldwin, the sum of two hundred dollars with interest from my death, and it is my will and intention that the respective husbands of my said daughters shall have no control power or right to the said money in any way or manner but that the same shall be paid over to my daughters by my Trustees aforesaid upon the separate receipt and discharge of my daughters only and in such form and at such time as my said trustees in their direction shall think proper. And in case any of my said daughters should die before me be paid to her children surviving her, share and share alike. Item. I give and bequeath unto my youngest daughter, Harriet Baldwin, the sum of three hundred dollars to be paid to her in two years after my decease with interest annually from my death by my son Josiah O. Baldwin and for the payment of which from the land hereinafter demised to him is encumbered and charged. Also, it is my will and intention that such furniture and the two cows that have been called and known heretofore as the property of my daughter Harriet shall belong to her absolutely. Also that my daughter Harriet shall have during the time that she remains unmarried a home in my homestead and two rooms on the east end of my house one on the first story and one upstairs with the privilege of keeping one cow on the place, and sufficient firewood to support one fire; also fruit and all other usual privileges of tenants. Item. All the rest residue and remainder of my estate, real and personal, including all my homestead farm, salt meadow and other estate not hereinbefore demised or bequeathed, I give, bequeath and demise unto my youngest son, Josiah O. Baldwin and his heirs and assigns forever, but the same is hereby expressly charged and encumbered and I do charge and encumber the heirs with the payment of all my debts, (except my debt to Eunice Baldwin) my funeral charges and with the payment of all my legacies and bequests heretofore made. And in case my son Josiah O. Baldwin shall refuse and decline to payment of the same charged upon my estate demised to him, then my will is and I order and direct my Executors hereinafter named to sell so much of my lands to demised as may be necessary to pay off such legacies and debts. Lastly I constitute, name and appoint my three sons, Abraham Baldwin, Samuel Baldwin, and Josiah O. Baldwin Executors of this my Last Will and Testament hereby revoking all former wills by me made and declaring this as and for my last will and testament---

In witness whereof I have hereunto signed my name and set my seal hereto this thirtieth day of January in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twnty-six. (1826)

5. JEMIMA¹⁰ BALDWIN (JOSIAH⁹, THOMAS⁸, JOSIAH⁷, JOHN⁶, JOHN⁵, JOHN⁴, JOHN³, HENRY², RICHARD¹) was born 07 Nov 1797 in Bridport Addison Vermont, and died 20 Dec 1875 in Loraine, Ohio. She married JOHN BAYLES 1817 in Mentz Township, Cayuga, New York. He was born 21 Feb 1795 in New Jersey.

Children of JEMIMA BALDWIN and JOHN BAYLES are:

- i. ADELIA¹¹ BAYLES, b. 04 Nov 1836, Mentz, Cayuga, New York.

Notes for ADELIA BAYLES:

The 1880 Census lists her occupation as dressmaker, residing in Elyria, Lorain, Ohio age 42. In the censuses of 1910, 1920, and 1930, her residences changed to Pacific Grove, Monterey, California. She died after the age of 94 in Pacific Grove.

- ii. ALEANDA BAYLES, b. 03 Mar 1839, Loraine, Ohio.

Notes for ALEANDA BAYLES:

The U.S. Censuses all give different spellings to her name which include Alexander, Alceanda, Aleanda among others. Since her sister was named Adelia, Aleanda seems appropriate. She resided at the same address as her sister in the 1910 and 1920 Censuses.

- iii. MARY L. BAYLES, b. Abt. 1820.
- iv. CYRUS BAYLES, b. Abt. 1822.

Revolutionary War Record of Josiah Baldwin

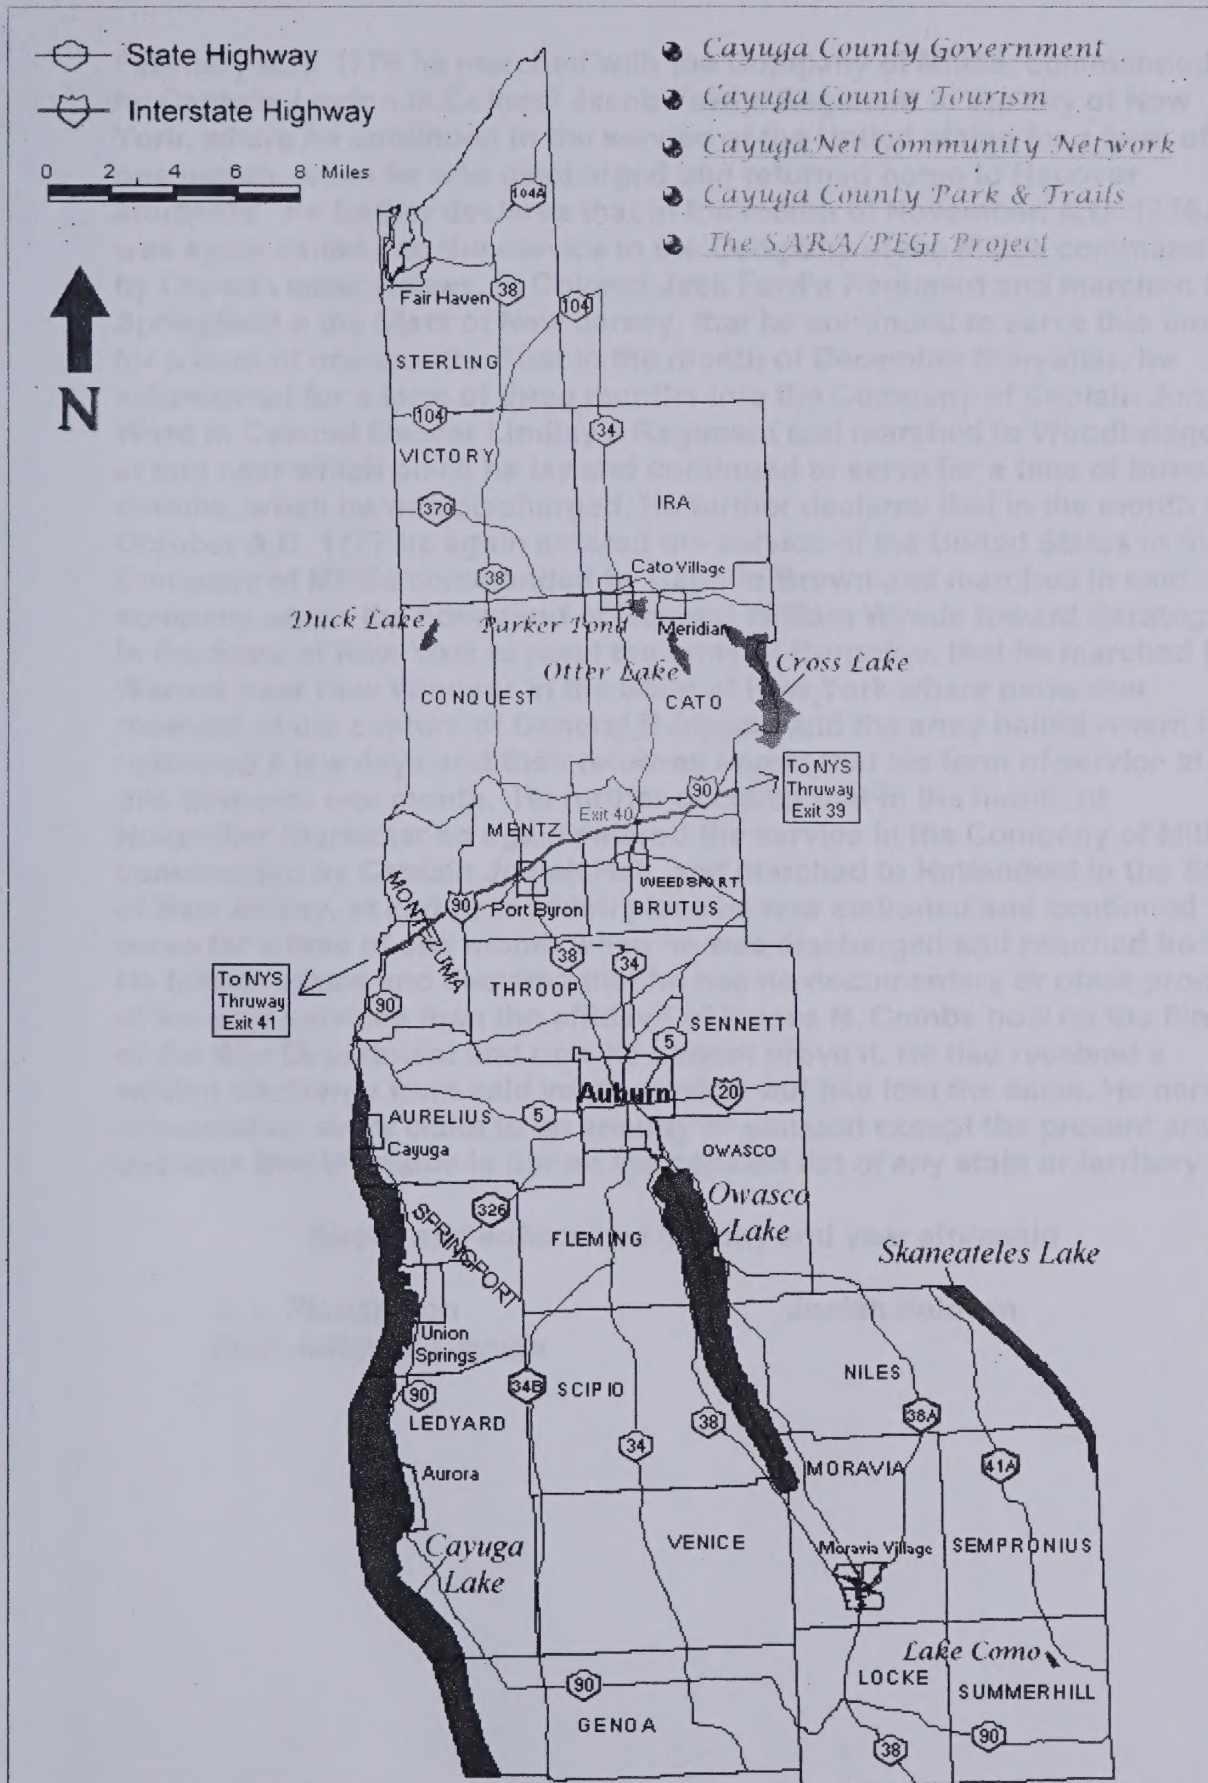

The following information was recorded by Judge J. L. Richardson, First Judge of Cayuga County, New York, given to him under oath by Josiah Baldwin, our 4th great grandfather.

STATE OF NEW YORK

CAYUGA COUNTY

"On this 22nd day of August A.D. 1832, personally appeared before the First Judge of the Court of Common Pleas in and for the County of Cayuga and the State of New York, Josiah Baldwin, a resident of Mentz in the County of Cayuga and State of New York, aged seventy-five years, who being first duly sworn, according to law doth, on his oath, make the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the act of congress, passed June 7th 1832:

That he entered the service under the following named officers, and served as herein stated: That about the last of May or the first of June A. D. 1775, at the town of Hanover, in the County of Morris in the State of New Jersey, he enlisted into the Company of Artificers commanded by Captain Samuel Haynes (the name of his Colonel he does not now remember) for a term of three months; that he was engaged in building "Chevaux de Frise" during said term. He further declares that, in the month of May A.D. 1778, he again enlisted into the Company of Artificers commanded by Captain Jeremiah Bruen, in Colonel Jabez Baldwin's Regiment for a term of one year; that he continued to serve in said company during the whole of said term for one year; that he joined the army of General Washington at Valley Forge and continued with said army until the expiration of his term of service. That from Valley Forge the said army moved to Monmouth where the Battle of Monmouth took place. Said army moved from Monmouth to Brunswick where it halted few days and from there to the "white plains." where it lay until about the month of September, when it moved to near Quaker Hill in Dutchess County in the State of New York, where it remained until it went into winter quarters at Middlebrook in the State of New Jersey, where it remained until the spring of 1778. He further declares that in the month of July A.D. 1781, he again enlisted into the Company of Artificers commanded by Captain William Crocker (the name of his Colonel he does not remember) that he soon after joined the French troops under the command of Count Rochambeau at Pumpton Plains in the State of New Jersey, and moved on with said army to Williamsburgh in the State of Virginia where he remained with the carriages and baggage of said army until about the 12th of December. Thereafter when he left said place for home, where he arrived about the 29th day of the same month, making in the whole a time of five months. He further declares that in the month of February A.D. 1776 he marched with the Company of Militia, commanded by Captain Layton in Colonel Jacob Ford's Regiment to the city of New York, where he continued in the service of the United states for a term of one month, when he was discharged and returned home to Hanover aforesaid. He further declares that in the month of November, A.D. 1776, he was again called into the service in the Company of the Militia commanded by Captain Isaac Halsey, in Colonel Jack Ford's Regiment and marched to Springfield in the State of New Jersey, that he continued to serve this time for a term of one month. That in the month of December thereafter, he volunteered for a term of three months into the Company of Captain Jonas Ward in Colonel Eleazer Lindlay's Regiment and marched to Woodbridge, at and near which place he lay and continued to serve for a time of three months, when he was discharged. He further declares that in the month of October A.D. 1777 he again entered the service of the United States in the Company of Militia commanded by Captain Brown and marched in said company under the command of General William Wynds toward Saratoga in the State of New York to meet the army of Burgoine, that he marched to Warock near New Windsor in the State of New York where news was received of the capture of General Burgoine and the army halted where it remained a few days and then returned home; that his term of service at this time was one month. He further declares that in the month of November thereafter he again entered the service in the Company of Militia commanded by Captain Josiah Hall, and marched to Hattenfield in the State of New Jersey, at and near which place he was stationed and continued to serve for a time of one month when he was discharged and returned home. He further states and declares that he has no documentary or other proof of his said services than the affidavit of Moses N. Combs now on the files of the War Department and now he cannot prove it. He had received a written discharge from said years service, but has lost the same. He hereby relinquishes every claim to an annuity or pension except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension list of any state or territory.

5. Meeting at the Surrogate Court:

At a Surrogate Court held at the Surrogate Office in the village of Auburn in and for the County of Cayuga, on the twenty-third day of July A.D. 1840- present, George H. Wood, Surrogate. The instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of Josiah Baldwin, late of Mentz in said county deceased, was offered for probate and for proof a a will of real and personal estate pursuant to the Statute. On filing due proof of the publication of the citation issued in this matter and the service of the same and open to heirs-at-law and next of kin to the deceased residing in this State, this matter was now brought on to be heard. Two of the witnesses to said will were produced in open court testified as follows in the matter of the proof and probate of the last Will and Testament of Josiah Baldwin, deceased:

Cayuga County, New York

William Paine of Mentz in said county being duly sworn deposes and says: "I was well acquainted with Josiah Baldwin, late of Mentz aforesaid deceased and ws present when a certain instrument in writing now here shown to me dated the sixteenth day of May, 1838, purporting to be the last Will and Testament of said deceased by signing his name thereto. I heard him publish and declare the same to be his last Will and Testament. The deceased requested me to become a subscribing witness to the execution thereof. I did so signed my name thereto as such witness in the presence of the deceased. The said deceased was, in my opinion at the time of the execution of said instrument of a sound and disposing mind and memory and in all aspects competent to make and publish Last Will and Testament and to devise real estate, that he was of full age and under no restraint that I know of."

Testimony

And 28th July 1840

At a Surrogates Court held at the Surrogates Office in the Village of Auburn in & for the County of Cayuga on the twenty third day of July A.D. 1840.

Josiah George Wood Surrogate.

The instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of Josiah Baldwin late of Clinton in said County deceased was offered for probate & for proof as a will of real and personal estate pursuant to the Statute. On filing and proof of the publication of the citation issued in this matter, and the service of the same upon the heirs at law & next of kin to the deceased residing in this State, this matter was now brought on to be heard, two of the witnesses to said will were produced in open Court & testified as follows.

In the matter of the proof & probate of the last will & testament of Josiah Baldwin dec'd.

Cayuga County, N.Y. William Paine of Clinton in said County being duly sworn deposes & says; I was well acquainted with Josiah Baldwin late of Clinton & deceased & I was present when at certain instrument in writing now here shown to me dated the Sixteenth day of May 1838 purporting to be the last will & testament of said deceased, was executed, I saw the deceased execute said instrument by signing his name thereto, I heard him publish & declare the same to be his last will & testament.

The deceased requested me to become a subscribing witness to the execution thereof I did so & signed my name thereto as such witness in presence of the deceased. The said deceased was in my opinion at the time of the execution of said instrument of sound & disposing mind & memory, and in all respects competent to make & publish a last will & testament & to dispose real estate, that he was of full age & under no restraint that I knew of.

Notes on Harrison Baldwin reported by Kindred Konnections, Jay Silverstein, exceptional documentation (si000469)

Harrison was an undertaker and carpenter. After running a funeral parlor in Lum, Michigan for some time he moved to Oxford, Michigan, where for many years he was the village Funeral Director, and a carpenter, making the caskets which he used in his business. It is not known if he made the furniture he sold. It is said he was the 1st funeral director in Oakland County, Michigan.

(Source: Edward Bellairs, World Family Tree Volume 3, Ed. 1, World Family Tree, Volume 3, Edition 1, Broderbund Software, Inc.)

James Baldwin, our 3rd great grandfather, was born in Hanover, Morris County, New Jersey, October 26th, 1787. At the time of his birth, his father, Josiah and grandfather Thomas had apparently laid plans for a major move from Hanover to Bridport, Vermont. At the same time, his great grandfather, well into his 80's, had returned to Hanover. The motivation for the move is unknown but it did include James's great grandfather Josiah.

A number of Baldwins had already settled in Bridport. There were at least two other families of Baldwins, not directly related to each other, who had taken up residence in Bridport at some earlier date. Perhaps distant cousins of our Baldwins. In any case, all of the Baldwins of Hanover and their families made the move to Bridport. The record of land purchases can be found in 4th great grandfather's section.

It was in Bridport that James met and married Hannah Cushing. It was only recently that Hannah's surname came to light. Her genealogy is located at the end of this section. Contact was made with W. R. Cushing, a resident of California and the "holder" of the Cushing genealogy. He had no information on the Baldwins except that Hannah had married one in Bridport. An exchange of genealogies occurred and we both gained much information. The marriage took place on 01 Jan 1814 in Bridport. Two girls, Valeria and Martha were born in Vermont. The first son, Alvin, may have been born in Mentz, Cayuga, New York, about 1820.

There is some evidence that James' family spent some time in Ohio prior to their establishing residency in Oakland County, Michigan. There is a curious entry in the Will of his father, Josiah:

"Firstly, I give and bequeath unto my son James, the sum of one dollar, and to my daughter Anna Tichenor, I give and bequeath the like sum of one dollar, which seems, together with what they have here before received of me, will be their full, equal shares of all my real and personal property..."

There is no other reference in the papers available that mentions any money transferred to James or Anna. Clearly the movement of James and his family might have required support from Josiah. The Cayuga County Book of Deeds shows the following transfer of property:

Josiah Baldwin to James Baldwin:

Then, in the early to mid 1800's, James made several transfers:

July 1834 to Moses Leonard Lot #8 2 acres Book MM page 229

Oct 1834 to Daniel Topping NA pt Book CC page 501

Jun 1835 to Geo. Somers Lot 82 15 acres Book WW page 400

Dec 1838 to Elisha Arnold 89 pt Book 60 page 296

Jan 1844 to Levi Hall Lot 100 17 acres Book 68 page 42

There is nothing to indicate a property transfer to Anna.
One other comment found in the Last Will and Testament of Josiah states:

"...And it is hereby further enjoined and decreed by me that my daughter Phebe Easting and her children have a home at my house to superintend my business, nurses, and takes care of me as long as she may live if she sees fit so to do."

No mention of Phebe having any children of her own was found. The Will was dated 16 May 1838. There is some indication that she was living with her father and helping with Madison's daughter, Esther C.

The move to Oakland County must have occurred around 1830. Sarah, James' youngest daughter, was born in Oakland County in 1831. Some sources say she was born in Mentz, N.Y. The precise date could not be found.

Dear Bob (Jackson) Sally asked me a long time ago to write you of my findings, but it seemed there was always something I just had to do. Well, she asked again yesterday, so here it goes. A great deal of my information came from a Cleveland, Ohio Judge, He published a Baldwin Family History in 1889 and so All I had to do was verify his findings and add to it.

Rather than type all his findings, I shall copy some of my information and mail it to you. That is if my printer cooperates, it is touchy.

Here is what I have: John Baldwin of Milford, Connecticut 1619-1681 wife, Mary Camp 1640-after 1720

John Baldwin 1640-after 1702, wife Hannah Bruen John came to Newark, N.J. in 1666. His son John lived in Hanover NJ

His son John Baldwin 1670-1743 His son Josiah born 1701 -11800 His son was Thomas 1736-1815. Thomas was the father of Jooooosiah who fought in the American Revl. Josiah was born 1757-died in 1840 and is buried in Mentz, Cayuga County, NY It was his son Thomas that moved to Ohio, Thomas 1785-1868 is buried in Lorain County Ohio. his son was Lucas Baldwin who moved to Paulding County Ohio where Sally's grandfather and grandmother lived and died. Sally's great grandfather was Frederic Baldwin, grandfather was Wilmer Baldwin and her father Charles Baldwin

I will try to get this copied and sent to you soon—as I said, depending on my printer. Sally' Mom, Betsy Baldwin

BALDWIN FAMILY HISTORY

When the Normans came to England in 1066, there came Bawdewyn de Brugge. He appears to be the common ancestor of the Baldwin family in England. Over the centuries the name took many different forms: Baldewyn, Baldwyn, Baldwyne, Bawdwyn, and finally Baldwin. Members of the Baldwin family were involved in the history of England in various ways in that they were dedicated to the royal family.

The Baldwin family lived in the Chesham hamlet of Bellingdon for several centuries. Robert Baldwin had title to lands in Bellenden and Botley in Chesham. These lands he left to his son Richard. As Richard had no heirs, the next to inherit the lands was Richards's brother, John Baldwin. John left the lands to his son Sylvester who paid taxes on the manor of Dundridge and Aston Clinton in 1579. He died in 1593 leaving the lands to his son Henry. (Henry's children were Richard, Sylvester, John, Robert and several daughters.)

The lands next were inherited by the oldest son, Richard. As Richard had no children, he willed Aston Clinton to a nephew, Sylvester, son of his brother Sylvester. Sylvester at the time he inherited Aston Clinton manor (Buckinghamshire) was enroute to New England and died on the voyage. On the same voyage with Sylvester was his cousin, John Baldwin. John Baldwin was the grandson of Henry Baldwin as was Sylvester.

John Baldwin who is regarded as the forefather of the Baldwin family in America came from Buckinghamshire in England on the ship "Martin" in 1637. He landed at the Massachusetts Bay Colony and spent the winter there. In the spring of 1638, he settled in the New Haven Colony of Milford, Connecticut. He became an active member of the colony, joined the Puritan church, and served in the militia.

His son, John Sr. of Newark, left the New Haven colony and settled in Newark, New Jersey in 1666. He had found the church laws too strict and moved to the Dutch colony of N.J. His son, John of Hanover (1670-1743+) moved to a settlement on the Passiac River in Morris County, N.J. His son Josiah and his grandson Thomas, and his great grandson Josiah (1757-1840) also lived in Hanover, N.J.

Josiah, the great grandson of John of Hanover, volunteered for the Continental Army and served from 1776-1781. When the Revl. War was over, Josiah (1757-1840) moved from N.J. to Vermont. Also moving to Vermont was his father Thomas, his grandfather Josiah, and his son, 4 yrs. old, Thomas Baldwin.

Thomas Baldwin (1784-1868) was the great-great-great grandfather of Nancy, Jayne, Sally and Kathy Baldwin.

John was baptized in 1648 and received full communion in the Puritan church 1662 in Milford. In 1666 John moved to Newark, New Jersey thinking that since it was governed by the Dutch he would find many liberties and privileges. (The Puritans of Conn. had "Blue Laws" and were very strict, but when he did move to Newark, the English had control of the colony.) He bought "The Neck" in 1674 and settled down to be a shoemaker. His will is dated 1702.

 Sorry - hit send too soon.

Here are my kids (and grandchild):

1) Kassidy Celeste Gerber - born Reed City Michigan July 19, 1979. Married 2004 to Mark Santaniello of Charlestown RI - now living in Seattle WA. One child - son Isrea Landrew Butler Jr. - born San Diego CA Sept. 25, 1998 (from Kassidy's first marriage to Isrea Landrew Butler).

2) Hillary Marie Gerber - born Grand Rapids Michigan April 22, 1984. Single.

3) Spencer Baldwin Gerber - born East Grand Rapids, Michigan May 3, 1992. Single.

Stay in good health - thank you for all your hard work investigating and documenting this information.

Best Regards,
 Sally Gerber

 Hello Bob -

And a Happy New Year to you as well - sounds like you need it with all of the health issues you have been dealing with.

As for my children - I have 3.

 Dear Sally and Liz,

Meaning to write to you for some time but other situations demanded my time- Hematoma on the brain and rehabilitation, eye surgery and injections to try to stop macular degeneration which helped to correct 4 months of blindness, and lastly, a loss of my house to the mortgage company and a total replacement of my right knee. During the interim, I tried to do additional work on the Baldwin heritage. I have updated the material I have on James Baldwin (1787), Thomas's brother. I now have fairly complete information on James's family and some descendants. If you have any interest in that material I would be happy to send it to you. Liz, the material you sent was just super and fit right in with the dates and data I had obtained. Thank you so much for sending it along.

I noticed that some information on Josiah's children was missing from the Family Group Sheet.

1. James Baldwin #635 married Hannah Cushing on 01 Jan 1814 in Bridport, Vermont. She was the daughter of Noah Cushing and Abigail Lockling. Abigail was born in 1794 in Bridport, Vermont, and died 06 Nov. 1863 in Oxford, Oakland, Michigan. James died 11 Aug 1860 in Oxford, Oakland, Michigan. I located a Cushing descendant in Southern California who held the Cushing Genealogy. It was authored by James Cushing and published by the Perrault Printing company, Montreal, Canada, 1905. Apparently the genealogy was updated. The original was completed by Lemuel Cushing, published in 1877.

2. James was born in Hanover, Morris, New Jersey on 26 Oct 1787.

3. David Baldwin #636 was born on 22 Sep 1793, Bridport, Vermont. I have no record of David's family. The Surrogate's report had David living in Greenburgh, Decatur, Indiana at the time of Josiah's death in 1840.

4. Rhoda Baldwin was born on 11 Dec 1802, Bridport, Addison, Vermont. She married Sheldon Vorce. They had at least 3 children. Sevilla Vorce, born in 1833, married a Charlie Curtis Lewis Vorce, born in 1835, and Madison Vorce, born in 1842. I received a note from an Alice Warren, who was researching information on the Vorce family. In particular, she was trying to identify the family members who were buried on the Vorce Farm. She did say that Rhoda and Sheldon had taken up residence in Kansas or Nebraska, but did not know where. Madison Vorce and his wife Mary had two children: Nellie Vorce, 1873 and Alice Vorce, 1877. The 1870 census lists his home town as Mentz but could be Port Byron. He was a carriage maker by trade and is listed in the Rome, New York, City Directories, 1887-92 with a home address of 22 W. Park St., Rome, New York

5. Anna Baldwin #639 was born on 13 Sep 1789 in Bridport, Vermont. She married Silas Tichenor. No mention was made of any children.

6. Elizabeth Baldwin #640 was born 23 Dec 1791, Bridport, Vermont. She married John Tichenor. Census information lists their residence as Parrishville, St. Lawrence, New York. Children born to Eliz. and John were: Margaret Tichenor, born in 1824, Parrishville, New York; Mary C. Tichenor, born in 1827, Parrishville; David O. Tichenor, born in 1827; and Lucy Tichenor, born in 1832.

David O. married Mary _____ and raised four children; Emogene Tichenor 1847, Frances Tichenor, 1849, Edward Tichenor, 1856, and John Tichenor, 1859.

7. Jemima Baldwin #641 was born on 07 Nov 1797, Bridport, Vermont. and died 20 Dec 1875 in Lorain, County, Ohio. She married John Bayles in 1817. At least two children were born of this marriage with some evidence of 7 additional children perhaps born earlier. Adelia Bayles born 04 Nov 1836, Mentz, N.Y.; and Aleanda Bayles, born 03 Mar 1839, Lorain, Ohio. The 1880 census lists Adelia's occupation as dressmaker, residing in Elyria, Lorain, Ohio, age 42. In the censuses of 1910, 1920, and 1930 her residence is given as Pacific Grove, Monterey, California. She died at the age of 94 in Pacific Grove

8. Phebe Baldwin, born 28 May 1800. married first _____ Esting and second, _____ Wilkins

9. Huldah Baldwin #1730, born 25 Oct 1795, Bridport, Vermont. Married Isaac Burwell

10. Madison Baldwin #1729, born 13 Apr 1804, died 07 May 1838. No mention of a marriage but did have a daughter Esther C. born 1836.

Also, if you are interested, I would be happy to send you a copy of The Descendants of James Baldwin, a six page summary. Let me know if you are interested in this.

A couple of questions:

1. Sally, do you have any children which I might add to my Josiah descendant list?
2. Of Thomas's 3 children, I have info on Lucas and Joseph but nothing on Julia?
Anything more there?
3. My father's work during the 1930's and 1940's lists an additional child born in Hanover, Morris, New Jersey on 24 Aug 1783 named Eunice. A death date on 02 Nov 1801 is listed. Have you run across this in your research? A person named Eunice Baldwin may have had some relationship to the other Josiah Baldwin, living in Orange, New Jersey at that time.

May I take this opportunity to wish both of you a very Happy New Year, 2011!!!

Most Sincerely,
Bob J.

GREETING:

YOU, and each of you, are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of our County of Cayuga, at his office in Auburn, in said County, on the Twenty third day of July next at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to attend the probate of the last will & testament of the said James Baldwin dec'd which relates to both real & personal estate and is presented for proof and probate by Isaac Sumner one of the Executors named therein and hereof fail not.

In Testimony Whereof, we have caused the seal of Office of our said Surrogate to be hereunto affixed. Witness

George W. Wood Surrogate of said County, at Auburn, the Twenty day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty

Geo. W. Wood Surrogate.

James Baldwin, our 3rd great grandfather, was born in Hanover, Morris County, New Jersey, October 26th, 1787. At the time of his birth, his father, Josiah and grandfather Thomas had apparently laid plans for a major move from Hanover to Bridport, Vermont. At the same time, his great grandfather, well into his 80's, had returned to Hanover. The motivation for the move is unknown but it did include James's great grandfather Josiah.

A number of Baldwins had already settled in Bridport. There were at least two other families of Baldwins, not directly related to each other, who had taken up residence in Bridport at some earlier date. Perhaps distant cousins of our Baldwins. In any case, all of the Baldwins of Hanover and their families made the move to Bridport. The record of land purchases can be found in 4th great grandfather's section.

It was in Bridport that James met and married Hannah Cushing. It was only recently that Hannah's surname came to light. Her genealogy is located at the end of this section. Contact was made with W. R. Cushing, a resident of California and the "holder" of the Cushing genealogy. He had no information on the Baldwins except that Hannah had married one in Bridport. An exchange of genealogies occurred and we both gained much information. The marriage took place on 01 Jan 1814 in Bridport. Two girls, Valeria and Martha were born in Vermont. The first son, Alvin, may have been born in Mentz, Cayuga, New York, about 1820.

There is some evidence that James' family spent some time in Ohio prior to their establishing residency in Oakland County, Michigan. There is a curious entry in the Will of his father, Josiah:

"Firstly, I give and bequeath unto my son James, the sum of one dollar, and to my daughter Anna Tichenor, I give and bequeath the like sum of one dollar, which seems, together with what they have here before received of me, will be their full, equal shares of all my real and personal property..."

There is no other reference in the papers available that mentions any money transferred to James or Anna. Clearly the movement of James and his family might have required support from Josiah. The Cayuga County Book of Deeds shows the following transfer of property:

Josiah Baldwin to James Baldwin:

Then, in the early to mid 1800's, James made several transfers:

July 1834 to Moses Leonard Lot #8 2 acres Book MM page 229

Oct 1834 to Daniel Topping NA pt Book CC page 501

Dec 1838 to Elisha Arnold 89 pt Book 60 page 296

Jan 1844 to Levi Hall Lot 100 17 acres Book 68 page 42

There is nothing to indicate a property transfer to Anna.
One other comment found in the Last Will and Testament of Josiah states:

"...And it is hereby further enjoined and decreed by me that my daughter Phebe Easting and her children have a home at my house to superintend my business, nurses, and takes care of me as long as she may live if she sees fit so to do."

No mention of Phebe having any children of her own was found. The Will was dated 16 May 1838. There is some indication that she was living with her father and helping with Madison's daughter, Esther C.

The move to Oakland County must have occurred around 1830. Sarah, James' youngest daughter, was born in Oakland County in 1831. Some sources say she was born in Mentz, N.Y. The precise date could not be found.

They would have been small children.

4. [S80] susandhigginbotham.blogspot.com.

In December 1344, Richard Fitzalan succeeded in having his marriage to Isabella annulled on the ground that the couple had expressly renounced their vows at puberty but had been "forced by blows to cohabit, so that a son was born." If the Pope or his deputy had any doubts as to why Richard had waited seventeen years after the birth of that son before attempting to secure an annulment ("Well, I kept meaning to get around to it, but . . ."), he kept them to himself.

Sources	1. [S3] LDS - Ancestral File. 2. [S79] edwardthesecond.blogspot.com. A few people seem to be interested in my great-grandfather's "copped hat" so I will reveal the story behind it. Not much of a story really, but one day my grandfather was gambling with a few other men. One of them lost a toss and paid off his debt with his hat. My great-grandfather becoming the new owner of said hat. The hat has lost it brownish-copper color, but it stood several inches high and was very plain. For some reason he would never reveal, Grandpapa always wore the hat at a crooked angle and he became known as "Copped Hat." My grandfather kept that hat, which I have inherited and it now remains in the family library. Lady Shirley

THE CASE FOR JONATHAN LAWRENCE AS THE FATHER OF JOHN LAWRENCE, SR. (1746-1825)

1. Letter from Mrs. Bethel Barger, summarizing her research up to September 1993, sent to Ruth Hindmarsh Hoeper, Arlington, Virginia. Ms. Barger's information came from a information obtained in 1940 from Norris W. Lawrence, Battle Ground, Washington. Ms. Barger lived in Holly, Michigan and researched the Detroit and Flint area libraries.

The publication Portrait and Biographical Album of Oakland County, Michigan states:

"Samuel S. (Stanton) Lawrence was the son of John Lawrence, who was born in Connecticut and moved to a farm in Vermont. John's father, Jonathan, was a native of Holland although of English parentage. Jonathan was reared in Worcester, Massachusetts."

"John and Mary (Townesley) Lawrence came to America in 1714, having been married in 1693. Both died in 1743. Son Jonathan married Elizabeth Buttrick who died in 1735. Their children were named Experience, Samuel, Jacob and Josiah. In 1738, Jonathan married Hannah Robbins. To them were born six children: Jonathan, Mary, Nathaniel, Abigail, John and William. Jonathan spent his latter days in Connecticut and died in 1769."

2. In the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Index of early American Patriots shows the following on page 403:

"John Lawrence, born 02 Feb 1746, died 27 Oct 1825. Married Mary Cleveland. His father was Jonathan Lawrence, born 04 Oct 1703 and died 08 Dec 1789. Married first, Tryphena Powers and second, Lydia Fletcher. Jonathan's line comes from Eleazer (3), Peleg (2) and John (1).

A followup note found by Ms. Hoeper states that "Jonathan's sister Experience claimed that Eleazer was Not her father!"

3. In a book titled "The History of Macomb County, Michigan, Mr. Erastas W. Lawrence of Utica claimed descent from John and Mary (Townesley) Lawrence, who came to America in 1813, settled in Massachusetts and left one son, Jonathan.

Erastas W. Lawrence was born 22 Dec 1805, Montgomery County, New York. He married Julia E. Russell in January, 1828. Julia was born on 19 Apr '809 in Deerfield, Franklin, Massachusetts. They arrived in Michigan in the spring of 1838, settling in Pontiac, Oakland, Michigan. The children of this marriage include Cornelius, 1831; Henry M., 1832; Benjamin S, 1835 and Helen E., 1837.

Later the family moved to Rochester, Oakland, Michigan, And remained there six years. Erastus served as postmaster under president James Polk's administration. Erastus's father, Benjamin, was the son of Jonathan Lawrence, born 15 Apr 1736 in Norwich, Ct. and Zeruidah Ormsby, daughter of Samuel and Dinah Fisher Ormsby.

Note A. The will of Major Eleazer Lawrence clearly indicates that the Experience Lawrence born in 1719 and married to Jabez Keep, is the daughter of Major Eleazer and not the daughter of Jonathan Lawrence. Further, the Will indicates that Elizabeth Buttrick, alleged to be the first wife of Jonathan Lawrence, is also the daughter of Major Eleazer. Frank Alden Hill reports in his book The Mystery Solved, General Books reprints, 2009, quotes that Will:

"... I give and Bequeath to my five sons vis. To my son Peleg Lawrence, Jonathan Lawrence, David Lawrence, Eleazer Lawrence and Samuel Lawrence to them and their heirs & assigns the sum of Five Shillings in money to each of them with what I have given to each of them by deeds to be the full of their portion of my estate. I give to my daughters viz to ye heirs of my daughter, Elizabeth Buttrick, deceased, twenty shillings in money & to my daughters Mary Fletcher, Sarah Cummings, and Experience Keep, Prudence Parker and to each of them or their heirs the sum of twenty shillings oin money with what they have received before is to be the full of their portions out of my estate all which Legases to be paid unto them or their heirs in one year after my decease by my executors hereafter named..."

For those who support the claim that, following the death of Elizabeth Buttrick, Experience Lawrence took care of the family until Jonathan remarried has some foundation in fact. It would not be unusual for two sisters to make such an arrangement. But the story that supports Experience as the daughter of Jonathan and Elizabeth Buttrick needs alteration.

FOREWORD

The study of names is of itself an absorbing subject. Their foundation and derivations are often of a mythical formation, others depending on occupation or place of residence. In the dim ages of the past there is no indication of kin, but only relation to the same stock, race, clan or tribe of people. The English had progressed beyond this, and their immigrants to the shores of the New World were able to trace back their forbears for several centuries before their exodus to the new country. The English parish registers contained a record of births, baptisms, marriages and deaths, which, with court records of wills and transfers of real estate, enabled lineage to be traced in many cases to the advent of William the Conqueror. Prior to this epoch in history, tribal or clan arrangements generally predominated, though in England this was more in the relations of tenantry. In Scotland, where the Gaelic was the language of the country prior to 1745, when the system of clans came to an end, there existed bodies of men all bearing the same surname and believing themselves to be related the one to the other and to be descended from the same stock. Thus the members of every clan were tied to another not only by the feudal but by the patriarchal bonds; for while the individuals composing it were vassals or tenants of their own hereditary chief, they were also descended from his family and could count exactly the degree of their descent.

The Western Indians had no family names; they used only descriptive cognomens which translated into English read something like this: "Long Time Sleeping," "Wipes his Eyes," besides a legion of other descriptive titles. Many of the white men derived their surnames in a similar manner, which had become necessary by the increase of population and for the purpose of identification. Therefore the place of birth or residence was often used; for example, James at-Wood, or John under-the-Hill. Then the occupation was used as a surname, hence the number of Smiths, derived from blacksmith, wagonsmith, tinsmith, goldsmith, etc. The physical characteristics, mental and moral qualities, were all turned into surnames, and families were named originally from their color as White, Black, Gray, Brown; others named for their height or strength, as Little, Long, Hardy, and Strong; while the moral attributes yielded Good, Gay, Moody, Wise, etc. The son of John, Peter and William in turn became Johnson, Peterson and Williamson, and this was also true of other given names; while in the language of the Russians, Pavelitch is the son of Paul; MacDonald in Scotch, is the son of Donald; and Fitzgerald in Irish, the son of Gerald. The prefix "O" signifies grandson, so that we have O'Brien, the grandson of Brien. In the Anglo-Saxon language the letters "ing" at the end of a name also stood for the same thing as Mac in Scotch and Fitz in Irish, hence Billing was the son of Bill, Harding the son of Hard, Birming the son of Birm. As an example, is the word Birmingham; the last syllable, "ham," meaning merely home in old English, became literally "the home of the sons of Birn." In these ways practically all English family nomenclatures have been constituted.

Though the custom is widespread for all males to bear the name of their parents, common law sanctions a change of name when made in good faith. There are no serious consequences growing out of an adoption of a new name, except the possibility of confounding the identity. Many who have become famous in history, arts, and literature, have adopted a new patronymic in whole or in part. Thomas W. Wilson on arriving at man's estate became Woodrow Wilson; and another incumbent of the presidential chair changed his name from Stephen G. Cleveland to Grover Cleveland. Brander Matthews and Bayard Taylor, well known authors, might have been lost amongst the mass of their competitors had they not dropped their plebeian given name James. The baptismal name of General Grant was Hiram Ulysses, but was changed when he was nominated for a cadetship to the Military Academy at West Point, when he was recorded as Ulysses S. Grant, in which form it ever since has remained. In literature and art there have been many radical changes from the original surname. The notable English actor, Henry Irving, was baptized John H. Broadribb; Maurice Barrymore was originally Herbert Lythe; the famous Mark Twain was Samuel L. Clemens; while O. Henry was Sidney Porter, and Charles H. Browne became Artemus Ward. The great explorer, Henry M. Stanley, was originally known as John Rowlands.

Similar illustrations are found among worthies in European literature and art. Melancthon's family name was Schwartzerde, meaning "black earth." As soon as his literary talents developed and began to forecast his future, he changed the name to the classic synonym by which he is known in history. Rembrandt's family name was Gerretz, which he changed to Van Ryn, on account of its greater dignity. Balzac was born a Guez, which means "beggar"; when he became conscious of his power as a writer, he selected the surname Balzac, from an estate he owned. Voltaire, Moliere, Dante Petrarch, Richelieu, Loyola, and Erasmus, were all assumed names. Even Bonaparte altered his name from Buonaparte to disguise his Italian origin; while his great opponent, the Duke of Wellington, was not by blood a Wellesley, but a Colley. His grandfather, Richard Colley, assumed the name of a relative named Wellesley, which was afterwards expanded to Wellesley.

win, all victorious. The name appears as early as 672 in records. One of the first names to appear in history is Bal-win, son of Can, a young French knight, killed at the battle of Roncavalles, 778. Baldwin of the Iron Arm was founder of Burges 837. His descendants ruled the Dukedom of Flanders. Matilda, daughter of the Duke of Flanders, married William the Conqueror. The name appears in the Roll of Battle Abbey; after the Conquest they became earls of Devonshire. The family is traced through earls of Flanders to Godfrey De Bullion, leader of the only successful crusade against Jerusalem.

In his political views Mr. Matthews is a stanch Republican and has taken an active interest in national affairs, but has never sought nor desired office. He is one of the founders of the Orange Valley, or Highland Avenue, Congregational church, of which all the members of his family are adherents, and of which he has been a deacon. He has been closely identified with the church and its interests since its organization and is a liberal contributor to its support.

RICHARD A. and ANDREW M.
FULCHER,

hat manufacturers, at the corner of New and Hoyt streets, Newark, occupy a prominent position in industrial circles in the city. Hat manufacture is one of the leading enterprises of Essex county, and it requires splendid executive ability, enterprise and sound judgment to win and maintain the enviable position which they occupy in the trade.

These gentlemen are brothers, natives of London, England, the former born July 27, 1832, the latter March 16, 1836. They are sons of Charles and Sarah (Butler) Fulcher. The former was of French descent and was a silk weaver by trade. During his early manhood he engaged in the manufacture of silk goods, in which enterprise he was very successful, doing a very profitable business and employing a large force of workmen. He died in the autumn of 1854, at the age of sixty-one years, his birth having occurred in 1793. He came to America in 1853 and took up his residence in Brooklyn, where he remained until called to the home beyond, his remains being interred in Greenwood cemetery. His faithful wife afterward returned to the land of her nativity, where she passed away in 1866, at the age of sixty-nine years. Both held their religious membership in the Episcopal church.

ARTHUR COLES DOUGHERTY, son of Alexander N. Dougherty, M. D., elsewhere mentioned, was born in Newark, New Jersey, December 10, 1858. He received a good preparatory education in the schools of Newark and spent one year in the College of New Jersey. His medical studies were pursued in the office and under the direction of his distinguished father. In 1882 he was graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York, and began at once the practice of medicine in his native city. Dr. Dougherty was for a time surgical clinical assistant to St. Michael's Hospital, and is a member of the Essex District Medical Society.

THE BALDWIN FAMILY.

The name Baldwin is said to be derived from the words "Bald," quick or speedy, and "win," an old word signifying victor or conqueror,—the true signification being "the speedy conqueror or victor." The Baldwins, earls of Flanders, were contemporary with Alfred the Great, whose son Baldwin (2d) married the daughter of Robert of France, whose daughter Matilda married William the Conqueror. Baldwin, archbishop of Canterbury, with a train of two hundred horses and three hundred foot, his banner inscribed with the name of Thomas à Becket, went on a crusade with Richard Cœur de Lion, in 1120.

trace their ancestry, through Benjamin, to Joseph Baldwin, one of the first settlers in Milford, Connecticut, in 1639. This Joseph was probably the brother of Timothy and Nathaniel, sons of Richard Baldwin, of Cholesbury, county Bucks, England, whose will was proved in 1633. Joseph removed to Hadley, Massachusetts. His wife, Hannah, joined the church June 23, 1644, and his children were then baptized. These were: Joseph, born 1640; Benjamin, 1642; Hannah, 1644; Mary, 1645; Elizabeth, 1646; Martha, 1647; and Jonathan, born 1649. Joseph (1st) gave his property in Milford to his sons Benjamin, Jonathan and Joseph.

Benjamin Baldwin (1st), second child of Joseph and Hannah Baldwin, was baptized in Hadley, Massachusetts, June 23, 1644, and was taken thence by his parents to Milford. He married Hannah, daughter of Jonathan Sergeant, one of the Branford signers of the "Fundamental Agreement," at Newark, in 1666. Benjamin Baldwin's name does not appear on the list, but he evidently came with the other settlers, as his name is on the "Sure List of Every Man's estate," in 1667. His "home lott" in Newark was bounded east by Washington street, west by High street, and extended above the present line of New street to the canal. The Town Records of Newark, September, 1668, contain the following "Item.—the town hath granted to Seth Tompkins, Liberty to lay downe his Own Home Lott and take up that which was formerly Granted to Benjamin Baldwin." Whether Benjamin (1st) removed to South Orange is not definitely known, but at a town meeting held March 19, 1673-74, "it is also agreed that Weavers Thomas Pierson and Benjamin Baldwin shall be considered by the Surveyors to make their out lotts on the Hill shorter."

At a town meeting, January 24, 1686-87, "it is agreed that Benjamin Baldwin's or Stephen Davis's half Bushel shall be the standard which shall be thought most suitable, and all Measures shall be sealed with an N and all Weights shall be tried by brass Weights if they can be had." "Town Meeting, January 1st, 1693-4. Item.—Benjamin Baldwin is chosen constable and he hath chosen Jonathan Baldwin, his son, for his deputy."

The children of Benjamin and Hannah (Sergeant) Baldwin were Benjamin (2d), Jonathan, Sarah, and Joseph. Benjamin Baldwin (2d), eldest child of Benjamin (1st) and Hannah (Sergeant) Baldwin, was born in Newark (probably in that part now known as South Orange) about 1690. His children were David, born 1715; Aaron, about 1717; Sarah, 1720; and Benjamin (3d), 1730.

Aaron Baldwin, second child of Benjamin (2d), was born in South Orange, about 1717. He owned and died in the stone house (still standing, 1896) situated on the northwest corner of South Orange avenue and Munn avenue, in South Orange. He was a member in communion of the Mountain Society prior to 1756. By his will, dated September 7, 1797, he devised to his son Elias "forty acres of my land on the westerly end by Elizabeth River. * * * To son Aaron, my house and all my land which I have not given to Elias," etc. Aaron (2d), however, died intestate before his father, in 1805, and the father, Aaron. Sr., made a codicil to his will in which he devises to grandsons Nehemiah, Joel and Cyrus, and further provides that their mother—the widow of his son Aaron—should be entitled to the same right of dower in the estate as she would have been had the property been vested in her husband and had he died intestate. The children of Aaron, Sr., were Zenas, born 1748; Aaron (2d), baptized February 5, 1758; Elias A.; Elizabeth, who married Richard Harrison; Eunice; Sarah, born 1766, and married Aaron Munn; Susannah; Tabitha, born 1752, and married Aaron Crane; Hannah, born 1762, and married Deacon Joseph Pierson; and Phebe.

Aaron Baldwin (2d), second child of Aaron (1st), was born in South Orange and baptized at the church in Orange, February 5, 1758; he died in 1805 at the home of his son Nehemiah. He served as a private in the war of the Revolution, as a member of Captain Squiers' company, Second Regiment, Essex; also Captain Craig's company, state troops. He married, May 5, 1780, Sarah Baldwin, of Newark, born July 7, 1762, daughter of Joel Baldwin. Their children were: Mary, born 1780, and married Moses Munn; Nehemiah, November 4, 1783; Samuel, 1786; Cyrus (1st), born 1788, died 1793; Joel, born 1790; Ira; Cyrus (2d), born 1795; Phebe, 1797; Lucetta, 1799; Sarah and Matilda L., twins, June 23, 1802. Both Aaron and his father died at the house of Nehemiah, in South Orange.

Nehemiah Baldwin, second child of Aaron and Sarah Baldwin, was born at the homestead in South Orange, November 4, 1783. The fact that his father and grandfather died at his house shows that he supported both of them in their old age. He married Rhoda Terrill, daughter of Amos Terrill, of South Orange. Their children were: Eliza, Aaron Ludlow, Aaron Riggs, Samuel A., born April 7, 1808, Amarantha, Phebe Louisa, Mary Elizabeth and George W.

Samuel A. Baldwin, fourth child of Nehemiah and Rhoda (Terrill) Baldwin, was born at the old Baldwin homestead, corner of South Orange avenue and Munn avenue, in South Orange, April 7, 1808. He married, first, September 1, 1830, Letitia Davis Ward, daughter of Abraham K. Ward, and his daughter, Emma Whybrew, married Dr. Joseph A. Corwin, of Newark; Anna Adelaide, born 1834, died 1855; Frederick Wellington, born July 14, 1839; Rev. Theodore Alling, born November 1, 1843, married Matilda Jane, daughter of William E. Layton, went as a missionary to Turkey in 1867 and still resides there. Samuel A. Baldwin married, secondly, Mary Addis, daughter of Miles Addis, of Addisville, Pennsylvania. By this marriage he had Wilmer Addis, Mary Adelaide, Elizabeth and Jane DuBois.

Wilmer Addis Baldwin, son of Samuel A. and Mary (Addis) Baldwin, was born in Newark, July 19, 1854, is a member of the firm of J. W. Goddard & Son, New York, and has resided in East Orange since 1891. He married Anna B., daughter of John Smith Hartshorne, of Newark, and has three children, viz.: Mabel Hartshorne, Anna Hartshorne and Elizabeth Carol.

Benjamin Baldwin (3d), son of Benjamin Baldwin (2d), was born in South Orange in 1730. In his will, dated September 1, 1801, proved April 9, 1804, among other devises, gives "to eldest son Josiah, in addition to the farm he now lives on, all that ten-acre lot I bought of Benjamin Coe, adjoining on Gershom Kilborn. * * * To son Uzal all that farm he now lives on. * * * To son Jephtha all the farm I now live on, including the land I bought of Jabez Pierson." The children of Benjamin (3d) were Josiah, born 1755, died 1826, married Lydia Ogden; Jephtha, born 1778, killed by railroad cars at Market street crossing, in Newark, in 1852, married Catharine Bishop; Uzal, married Sarah Parrott; Rhoda, married John Myers; Phebe, married Isaac Condit; Mary, married, first, Joseph Cone, second, John Personette; Abbey, married Jonathan Condit; Eunice, married James Condit; and Zebula.

The Uzal Baldwin farm became the property of East Orange township for use as the poor-farm. The Jephtha Baldwin farm became the property of his son Benjamin and was sold by him to the Montrose Park syndicate, and is now within the precincts of Montrose Park, since annexed to the village of South Orange.

Josiah Baldwin, son of Benjamin (3d), [of Benjamin (2d), of Benjamin (1st), of Joseph], was born in 1755, married Lydia Ogden and had: Abram, who married Sarah Baldwin; Samuel, who married Mary Meeker; Rachael, who married Mr. Munson; Josiah O., born 1796, who married Ann Munn; Elizabeth, born 1782, who married Jonathan Lindsley; Sarah, who married Joel Harrison; Mary, who married Cyrus Baldwin; Abbey, who married Joel Baldwin; Harriet, born 1800; and James E. Smith, born 1798.

Jephtha Baldwin, son of Benjamin (3d), [of Benjamin (2d), of Benjamin (1st), of Joseph], was born 1778, died 1852, married Catherine Bishop. They had as issue: Mary, who married Jabez Harrison; Clarissa, who married Charles Alling; Susan, born 1811, who married Matthias Crane; Eliza, born 1810, who married Ira T. Freeman; Sarah, who married John Lindsley; Catherine B., born 1816, who married

Robert P. Day; Amelia F., who was born 1817, and married Charles Williams; Margaret, who became the wife of Joseph Wilde; Emma A., who married Walter Tompkins; Virginia; George W.; Benjamin E., who married Rebecca Tompkins; and Aaron Bishop, who married Catharine Mason.

Uzal Baldwin, son of Benjamin (3d), [of Benjamin (2d), of Benjamin (1st), of Joseph], married Sarah Parrott. They had as children Jephtha; William W., who married Phebe Lindsley; Matilda, who married Elias Ross; Uzal; Sarah, who married Daniel Camp; Josiah L., who married Antoinette Quimby; and Abby.

Jonathan Baldwin, son of Joseph and Hannah Baldwin, was born February 15, 1649. He married, first, Hannah Ward, born 1663, and died 1693; and secondly, Thankful Strong. He died December 13, 1739. Children: John, born May 22, 1683; Joseph, baptized 1685, married a Miss Bruen, and died in 1777.

John Baldwin, son of Jonathan Baldwin, was born May 22, 1683, and died January 20, 1773, leaving a son named Ezekiel. This member of the family was born December 19, 1719, married Sarah, daughter of Benjamin Baldwin (2d), and had as issue Gabriel, born 1740, who married, first, Rebecca Little, and secondly Hannah Foster. His children were: Jephtha, born 1744, and married Phebe Freeman; Eunice, who was born 1745, and married Samuel Smith; Mary W., born 1752, married Isaac Munn; Rachael, born 1755, and married Zadoc Hedden; Caleb, born 1757; Benjamin, who married Isabella Albright. Caleb Baldwin, son of Ezekiel, was born October 21, 1757, served in the war of the Revolution, as private in Captain Abraham Lyon's company, Second Regiment of Essex. He had charge at one time of several British prisoners. He died in 1799, shortly before the birth of his youngest son, Caleb. He married Lydia Johnson, and had children, Eunice, who married Simeon Crane; Sarah, who married Henry Baldwin; Betsy, who married Louis Dodd; Catharine, who married Jabez Freeman; and David, Isaac and Caleb.

Caleb Baldwin (2d), youngest son of Caleb and Lydia (Johnson) Baldwin, was born in Orange, November 28, 1799, after the death of his father. He is now (1895) one of the oldest persons in Essex county, in full possession of all his mental faculties and a man of remarkable vigor and strength for his age. He is able to walk four miles a day without fatigue. In his boyhood, he attended school in the old white school-house that stood on the site of the present brick church, his teacher being Nathaniel Bruen. After completing his studies he was apprenticed to his brother David at the trade of shoemaking. About 1827 he opened a shop of his own and carried on a successful trade for about five years and then started in the meat business. About 1836 he opened a country store in Main street, in what is now East Orange, and became one of the first country merchants in this locality. In 1847 Mr. Baldwin obtained a position in the office of the Newark Daily Advertiser, which he held for twenty years and enjoyed the confidence of his employers. He left the employ of the Advertiser to accept a position in the office of the Newark Water Board and after twelve years of active service he retired, having reached his eightieth year.

In his younger days, Mr. Baldwin served ten years as a member of two different military companies of Orange, one of which was commanded by Captain Robinson. Many of the old Revolutionary soldiers were still living, and the military ardor of the young men was at its height. It was in 1824 when Mr. Baldwin had just reached his twenty-fifth year that one of the greatest events in the history of Essex county took place. This was the reception of La Fayette by the people of Newark, on his second visit to this country. All the military of the county turned out on that occasion, and Mr. Baldwin marched with his company from Orange to Newark and took part in the great celebrations, his company, among others, being reviewed by the Marquis de La Fayette and the governor of New Jersey.

With the exception of his military career, Mr. Baldwin has led a very uneventful life. He has made the best of his opportunities. With "malice toward none and charity for all," he has endeavored to live up to the golden rule. Upright, honest and conscientious in all his dealings, he has always proved himself worthy of the trust and confidence reposed in him, and in his declining years he has a "conscience void of offense."

Mr. Baldwin married, first, in 1825, Sarah, daughter of Bethuel Pierson, son of Samuel (3d), of Samuel (2d), of Samuel (1st), son of Thomas Pierson, one of the original Branford settlers of Newark, and brother of Rev. Abraham Pierson. The children of Caleb Baldwin by his first wife were: 1. Mary, born July 28, 1826, who married Caleb Neagles. 2. Hiram Pierson, born July 20, 1828, general passenger agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; married Caroline E. Schnyder, daughter of Aaron Schnyder, of Easton, Pennsylvania. Their children are: Mary Gertrude;

Maggie S., who married Henry M. Byllesby; Emily Pierson, who married Isaac Post; Caroline Napier, who married Warrington G. Lawrence. 3. Oscar L., born March 29, 1832, and married Isabel, daughter of Charles R. Akers. Issue: Charles R., Isabel, Joseph Halsey and Edith Merchant. 4. William H., born December 25, 1834; resides in Newark; married Cornelia Price, of Newark, and has four children, viz.: Elizabeth, who married Frederick F. Guild; Oscar H.; Bertha, married F. Walter Lawrence; Raymond S.

Caleb Baldwin married, secondly, Abby D., daughter of Lewis Munn, and their children were, Sarah C., who married James Clark; Theodore Frelinghuysen, who married Adèle Laeis, daughter of Felix Laeis, of St. Louis, Missouri.

Joseph Baldwin, son of Jonathan, was born November 29, 1685, married Miss Bruen and had, among other children, a son named Amos. The latter, known as "Deacon Amos," was born about 1720, was a devout, earnest Christian, a man of considerable note in his day, was one of the earliest deacons of the First church, and was one of the six elders who welcomed Rev. Jedediah Chapman to the pastorate, in 1766. He married Mary, daughter of Rev. Daniel Taylor, the first pastor of the Mountain Society, in 1721, and had a son named Lewis. Lewis Baldwin, son of Amos and Mary (Taylor) Baldwin, was born in Orange, October 22, 1744. He married Martha, daughter of Samuel Williams and had a son, Henry, by name. Henry Baldwin, son of Lewis and Martha (Williams) Baldwin, was born in Orange, May 24, 1773, married Sarah, daughter of Caleb Baldwin, and had a son named Cyrus. Cyrus Baldwin, son of Henry and Sarah Baldwin, was born in that part of East Orange known as Brick Church, in 1808. He had only the advantages of the little neighborhood district school, and yet he accomplished more than many collegiate graduates of the present age. He grew up on the farm and employed his leisure hours during the winter months, as did most of his neighbors, in the manufacture of shoes. He took up surveying without any previous instruction, and for many years before his death was the only surveyor in this locality outside of Newark. He was conscientious and painstaking, and his work could always be relied upon. He was employed by Mr. Haskell to make all the surveys for Llewellyn Park; during his lifetime he laid out hundreds of acres into city lots, and made the original survey of Rosedale cemetery, Orange. His work extended for miles beyond the Oranges. He was for many years justice of the peace and the only recognized legal counselor in this neighborhood; drew up most of the wills, deeds and other legal documents, not one of which has ever been contested on the ground of legal imperfections. He was a man of great natural ability and sound common sense, and accordingly was often called upon to arbitrate disputes between neighbors and seldom failed to arrange matters to the satisfaction of both parties. He enjoyed the confidence and respect of the people during his whole life, and not a single act of his ever brought dishonor or reproach on the name. By his wise and equitable decisions in the settlement of disputes, he doubtless saved thousands of dollars in litigation that might have ensued had the parties employed the usual methods. While not specially active in Christian work, he lived very near to the standard of the golden rule and set a worthy example for Christians to follow. While a man of decided convictions, he never gave offense by intruding his views on others, and ventured an opinion only when called upon to do so. He was a devoted husband, a kind neighbor and a steadfast friend. He died August 30, 1854. He married Elizabeth Cooper, third child of Giles and Sally (Wicks) Mandeville. She was born July 8, 1810. Their children were: Henry Wicks, born 1831, and died July 31, 1868; Giles Mandeville, born 1833, and died August 3, 1888; Albert and Abram Mandeville, twins, born July 5, 1835.

Albert Baldwin, third child of Cyrus and Elizabeth (Mandeville) Baldwin, was born at the homestead, in East Orange, July 5, 1835. He had none of the advantages of the higher education enjoyed by those of the present generation. He mastered the rudimentary branches, however, in the little village school, and fitted himself for the honorable position which he has filled for so many years. He entered the Orange Bank as a boy, when Stephen D. Day was its president and W. A. Vermilyea its cashier. He acquired a sufficient knowledge of the business in three or four years to enable him to obtain a position in the City Bank, of Newark, in 1856, as receiving and paying teller. The only other employees at that time were a bookkeeper, clerk and "runner." The capital stock of the bank was three hundred thousand dollars, and the deposits amounted to three hundred thousand dollars annually. Even with this amount of business it was a very responsible position for a young man to fill. He inherited from his father, however, those strong traits and sterling qualities that would enable a man to succeed in any undertaking, and he proved himself fully equal to the duties he assumed, and for forty years he has conducted its affairs with rare fidelity and devotion that has won for him the warmest affection and confidence of his associates. In 1858 he became its cashier, and now holds the dual position of cashier and vice-president. During his administration the deposits have increased from three hundred thousand annually to nearly two millions, the capital stock increased to half a million and the working force to three times the original number. There are probably few, if any, bank employees in the city of Newark who can show so extended a record of faithful service. The staying and sterling qualities of the Baldwin family, however, are proverbial.

The foundation of Mr. Baldwin's success was laid in his native town, but he has not resided there since early manhood. His winters have been spent in Newark and his summers at Covent Station, on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad. He has had no time to attend to affairs outside of the bank, its duties requiring his undivided attention. He has been for many years a vestryman of Grace Episcopal church, Newark. Mr. Baldwin married, in May, 1861, Jennet P., daughter of Charles Hooker, M. D., of New Haven, Connecticut, a descendant of Rev. Thomas Hooker, who came to New England in 1633, settled in Hartford in 1636 and founded the first church in Connecticut. Mr. Baldwin's wife died in 1883, leaving the following named children: Charles Hooker, Albert Henry, and Jennet Eliza.

Abram Mandeville Baldwin, son of Cyrus and Elizabeth (Mandeville) Baldwin, and twin brother of Albert Baldwin, of Newark, was born at the homestead on Prospect street, near Main street, East Orange, July 5, 1835. After leaving school he began his business career as clerk in the shoe manufactory of Joseph A. Condit. In 1859 he established a retail boot and shoe store and was the pioneer in the retail trade, the business having previously been done by country stores which dealt in every class of goods. He soon established a reputation for first-class goods and honest dealings, and was enabled to carry a larger stock and greater variety than his "general-store" competitors. He erected a large frame building at 345 Main street, Orange, which was destroyed by fire in 1873. This was replaced by a fine brick building, where he has since carried on a successful and constantly increasing trade. During his business career of over thirty-five years, he has passed through the various money crises and has been able to meet promptly all his obligations, and notwithstanding the fact that competitors have entered the field from time to time, he has kept well in advance and held his patrons. Like his brother, he has devoted his time to his business and mingled but little in public affairs. He has been a regular attendant at the Brick church for many years, and has led an exemplary, upright life, honored and respected by his neighbors.

GEN. GEORGE B. McCLELLAN.

To one who had "achieved greatness" and "had honors thrust upon him," it would be difficult to find a more modest, unassuming man than General George B. McClellan, who for twenty years or more was a resident of West Orange. During that time he mingled freely in all the social affairs of the Oranges, and every Sabbath he worshiped in the little St. Cloud Presbyterian church, greeting in the most cordial manner the plain, simple people whom he met there. General McClellan came of the same Puritan stock that settled Newark and Orange Mountain. His great-grandfather, General Samuel McClellan, was a native of Woodstock, Connecticut, and commanded the first company of cavalry that joined the Continental army at Cambridge. He subsequently became general and served throughout the war. When the currency of the Continentals had depreciated and no funds were forthcoming with which to pay their soldiers, General (then Colonel) McClellan advanced one thousand pounds from his own private purse to pay the men of his regiment.

The father of George B. McClellan, a well known and prominent physician, settled in Philadelphia, where George B. was born December 3, 1826. It was expected the son would follow in the footsteps of his father, but he chose a military career and was sent to West Point Military Academy, at which he was graduated in 1847. He served with distinction in the Mexican war and was afterward placed in command of a company of engineers at West Point. In 1855 he was commissioned by Jefferson Davis, then secretary of war, to study the military operations in the Crimea. He afterward became chief engineer of the Illinois Central Railroad, and on its completion was made vice-president. At the breaking out of the Civil war he was commissioned major-general by Governor Denison of Ohio, and placed in charge of the state troops. In May, 1861, he was commissioned by the general government major-general of the regular army and placed in command of the Department of

Grandfather's Letter

A Letter about the Baldwin Familywritten during October 1950*by William Marsh Baldwin*of Buffalo, N. Y.*to his son, William Marsh Baldwin junior*of Cleveland, Ohio

Dear Bill,

You now have three sons and a daughter. At the moment, being seven years, five years, three years and four months old, respectively, they have no more interest in the origins of the Baldwin family than you or I did when we were youngsters. But the day may come twenty, thirty or forty years hence when Christopher, William III, Nicholas or Miss Victoria may wonder about the path which led successive generations of Baldwins down to you and to them.

So I am writing this as a sort of document which can be tucked away into the tin box which every family seems to have. Maybe it will turn up when the boys become of age and be at least of some passing interest.

You remember your boyhood days in Buffalo just as I remember mine in Syracuse, N. Y. We have hazy knowledge of the fact that two or three preceding generations of Baldwins lived in northern New York State, or, more specifically, in Oswego and Jefferson counties which lie north of Syracuse along the shores of Lake Ontario as it bends northward to enter the St. Lawrence River. But where did they come from? How did they happen to settle there? When did their forefathers come to America?

Ancestors have never counted very importantly with me. If any of the blue-blooded Baldwins were among our antecedents, which no one today can prove, the strain long ago vanished in the veins of thousands of descendants. Besides, for every Sir Roger Baldwin, if ever there were such a person, you'll probably find plenty of scalawags in the lineage. And there's always the possibility that St. Roger himself should have been in jail.

One time when my friend Kneeland Wilkes harbored ambitions to be mayor of Buffalo, I asked him why. "One of the Wilkes," he said half-jestingly, "was Lord Mayor of London and I can't let him get the best of me." Kneeland's brother Stewart promptly deflated him by adding, "Yes, but what will people say when they learn that our Lord

Mayor's father was the bastard son of Sir Hubert Wilkes and one of King George's scullery maids!"

The thing that does intrigue me about our forebears, however, is the thought that here are some men and women of the family who walked, even though anonymously, through pages of history full of color and adventure. They watched, probably with hearts in throats, the British cannonade the American vessels off the shores of Lake Ontario in 1812; they felt the terror of Indian attacks on the palisades of colonial Milford.

You can run through the Baldwin lineage, as I have, and you will find Zebulons, Davids, Jabez and their womenfolk of equally quaint name -- Amanda, Hannah, Abigail, Delia, Lovinia and even a Miss Silence Baldwin! They are only names until, in your mind's eye, you start walking in an ancestor's shoes along the Mohawk trail of post-Revolutionary days. Then you begin to see the stagecoach and the mud road cutting through the forested hills of Oriskany, Fort Stanwix and the shores of Oneida Lake to the new outpost of civilization in the Oswego valley where you will make your home.

Or, let your imagination carry you back still further...back to the year 1639. See that body of forty or fifty men with their wives and children moving along an Indian trail in the Connecticut wilderness, driving their cattle and other domestic animals before them?
They are making their way to the mouth of the Wepawaug River, to a site they have purchased from the Pauguaset Indians. One of these men is Joseph Baldwin. He's your great-grandfather twelve generations back!

* * *

If you are interested, you can wade through, later on in these amateurish history, your lineage right on down from the days of King Henry VIII. Most of it, to tell the truth, is news to me. It was only a few days ago that I discovered that one of the Baldwins a generation or two back (and no kin of ours) apparently made a life work of tracing the lines of descent of various American branches of the Baldwin family from their medieval beginnings. It's in two fat books over at the library -- of interest, as your Aunt Lucille
crushingly puts it, only to another rhinoceros.
These tomes, plus some histories of early settlers in New England and northern New York State which I never before knew existed, provided part of the bibliography for this report of mine. Another contribution is an old, old family record originally in possession of my grandfather which I saw for the first time two or three weeks ago when my cousin Lucille Granger showed it to me in Hartford. It was this latter document, in fact, which touched off this exploration.
The one who really should be writing this -- especially with reference to our immediate predecessors -- is sister Lucille, your aunt. I was too young -- 13 years old when my father, mother and sister Laura and I left Syracuse to live in Buffalo to remember much about the older Baldwins of northern New York. (Lucille at that time already had married George Martin Van Slyke and was living in Brooklyn.) I looked upon the great aunts and uncles of my grandfather's generation as rather awe-inspiring old strangers. The outermost horizon of the Baldwin family, as far as I was concerned, was my own father, for my grandfather William Baldwin had died four years before I was born in 1892. But my sister Lucille, being twelve years older than I, and "grown up," not only knew my grandfather but his brothers. She had seen their homes and their fathers' homes in northern New York ... one of them, as she says, a superb example of classic Greek architecture with tall pillars, wide cornices, beautiful mantelpieces and curving stairways. Their personalities, their ways of life, are real and vivid in her memory and are a link with an age that reaches almost back to the American Revolution. I, for example, can pick out the History of Jefferson County the rather dry fact that: "In 1849 William Baldwin (your great-grandfather) purchased a tannery which afterward burned. Mr. Baldwin rebuilt it, making it one of the largest in the county; this also burned about 1870. He was a citizen of much public spirit and usefulness." But listen to your Aunt Lucille make him come to life:

"Our grandfather was very handsome and had beautiful hands, very skillful ones. He made that mahogany box that I have on the piano. I have been told that the reason he became a tanner was because he could not buy leather that suited him to cover trunks. His own bridal trunk stood in our Purman street (Syracuse) attic for years. It was a beautiful thing, he had tanned the leather himself and built it himself. For a long time he bound his own books. Don't I wish I had just one of those! I saw just one -- the song book he used to conduct the choirs -- he directed two each Sunday, one in the Baptist church and one in the Methodist church. His clothes had a special pocket for his tuning fork. "His clothes were elegant. He and his brothers all were dandies. The last time I saw Uncle Harry (great-uncle, of course) he was then past eighty, but he had just had a manicure and was wearing a pale gray Prince Albert, striped trousers and an Ascot tie. And Uncle John's haberdashery, even after he had retired to semi-practice in his old age in Sandy Creek, was some he had bought in Paris and London.

"Our grandfather was an invalid in my very youthful day and I was always fascinated by his blue velvet dressing gown and another paisley one -- both with silk neckerchiefs. And his nightshirts were embroidered with his monograms. "He would sing old ballads to me until they dragged me out. He was the pride and joy of my childhood. I simply adored him! I thought of him as old as God -- I suppose because of his white beard. Indeed I thought God looked like him!"

That mahogany box which my grandfather made, incidentally, will find its way to you one of these days. Lucille showed it to me only last month when we were down to her new home in Westport (not too far, by the way, from Joseph of Milford's haunts) and told me she wanted you to have it. It is full of daguerrotypes which attest to the elegance of your great-grandfather's attire. Or, I can list from the record the names of my grandfather's brothers -- Harrison, Jesse, Albert, John Jabez, and his sister, Delia -- all born in Sandy Creek from 1822 to 1838, but your Aunt Lucille can tell you this:

"Three of his brothers were dentists, swanky ones who charged large fees. Uncle Harrison operated in Kentucky and Cuba. The last time I saw him in New Hampshire (past eighty) he showed me his elegant kit of tools with mother-of-pearl handles and told me he once was ship-wrecked coming from Cuba and tied them around his waist.

"Uncle Jesse was the only Baldwin farmer I heard about. He migrated to Illinois, took a section of land. I saw that farm when I was fifteen -- grand big house and wonderful buildings. It was his son Arthur who migrated to California. They seemed to love to wander; many of them arrived in Honolulu and their descendants still have huge pineapple and sugar plantations.

"Almost all of them had a flair for music. Our grandfather had a splendid tenor voice and before you were born our father was the leading tenor in St. Paul's Cathedral. His sister Abbie was a fine soprano."

I wish I could add some strokes of my own to this picture but my own recollections of the few trips I made with my father and mother to the homes of my grandfather's contemporaries in Sandy Creek and Mannsville are pretty dim. It's a pity,

too, because I now realize they were an adventure into a setting that probably had changed little from pre-Civil War times; they were horse-and-buggy villages with lamp-lighted homes .. with the town pump and its tin drinking cup. I remember the horsehair sofas, the plush photograph albums in the parlors' the china pitchers and wash basins on the marble-topped bedroom stands ... and the "chamber pot" under the bed ... not to mention the fragrant outhouse ... which brings to mind another olfactory recollection, the pungent Pintach gas burners which lighted the creaking Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg train on the trips north. All this, you must realize, was in an era when in our town of Syracuse, one-cylinder "horseless carriages" were a novelty, when few homes had telephones, when kerosene-lighted horsecars were beginning to be replaced by trolleys with open drivers' platforms and hand brakes, when only the knobier homes (like ours!) were gas-lighted and had zinc bathtubs. Even our kitchen relied upon a hand pump which drew water from a cistern in the cellar. Our home in Syracuse was scarcely completed before I was born in 1892. It was not quite the architectural atrocity which many houses of that day were -- but almost. A porch ran around from the front to one side whose roof was supported by grillwork. Another second-story verandah was recessed above the front porch, framed with an oval grill of spindles. "Gingerbread" jigsaw work encrusted the facades of the twin front gables, one of which rose above the bay-windows of the first and second floors. Wooden sidewalks led back from the granite stepping stone and hitching post at the curb. Circular and oval windows with stained glass edging lighted the lower and upper halls. Inside shutters folded back behind the starched lace curtains in the parlor, living room and "music" room (where, I remember, my sister Laura, who became a most skillful pianist, practiced endless hours). Bas-relief ornamentation gave the ceilings a fancy touch. A "stoop" led off the dining room while father back was still another porch, leading off the laundry room behind the kitchen. Upstairs was a labyrinth of bedrooms with the lone bathroom halfway down the hall with its zinc tub, wash bowl and toilet (you pulled the chain). The open plumbing system, which included an attic cistern as well as a cellar one, was the bane of father's life. Zero spells invariably would find him in the cellar thawing the pipes with kerosene lamp.

The cellar, dark and low-ceilinged, was a forest of huge pipes leading, octopus-like, from a monster furnace up to the hot air "registers" in the rooms above. A few minutes after father would descend to this jungle with his kerosene barn lantern, clouds of ash dust would pour from these registers, followed by belches of coal gas.

The house stood on a fairly broad tract of land which afforded room for grapevines, apple, pear and peach trees, berry bushes, squash vines, lettuce, carrots and asparagus beds. At the rear was the barn with its stalls for our horses, its feed bins, its hayloft and harness closet. A lean-to housed the hen houses which let out onto a screened chicken yard. A pigeon coop and a rabbit hutch completed provision for our "livestock" -- all this, mind you, in a well-built-up section. the crowing, the cooing, the cackling, the whinnying and even the lowing of a neighbor's cow pastured in a large vacant stretch beyond our house seemed not at all incongruous to the city dwellers in our neighborhood.

Our barn, of course, was a small boy's heaven. It smelled pleasantly of harness dressing, horse linament, hay and manure. We burrowed far into the hay to make secret caves; we leaped from rafters. we slid down the feed chutes into the stalls. (No wonder father sometimes found the horses inexplicably skittish!) We climbed into the buggy, or the fringed-top surrey, and drove imaginary prancers at breakneck clip with Laddie, the dog, adding to the pandemonium. Later, when my father replaced the horses with a Locomobile steamer, whose stablemate, incidentally, was a neighbor's curved dash, one-lung Oldsmobile, the upper story was rid of its hay and became a combination gymnasium and theater, where the cast always outnumbered the audience. Some of my mother's gray

hairs probably trace back to one afternoon when fusilade of blank cartridges punctuated by unearthly tells and screams brought her out of the house on the double. It was merely an impromptu Wild West Show (admission, five pins.)

It's no part of a family history, of course, but I can't let this recollection of our barn go without setting down in the record a brief picture of the "stable of those days ... for it is a curiosity now and in another twenty years surely will be completely forgotten.

There

were "rigs" of all kinds from the tallyhoes rented by the livery stables to the hacks, broughams, victories, traps, buggies, surreys and wicker pony carts. And for winter, of course, there were the cutters with offset thills or shafts so that in deep snow Bobbin could track in one of the ruts made by the runner of the sleigh. Coarse haired buffalo robes and a deep bed of straw on the floor kept you warm. And, oh! the music of the sleigh bells! Thills! It's a dying and almost forgotten word now along with whiffletree, hame, blinder, hackamore and other odd terms which were part of the everyday language of those days. The harnesses sported german silver fittings, monograms on the blinders and button-life glass ornaments. Leather fly nets were added in summer as well as little tasseled "socks" for the horse's ears. Some horses even wore outlandish strew hats with their ears poking up through two holes.

Smarter turnouts included a spotted coach dog, a Dalmatian I suppose, which trotted under the axle only a few inches from the flying hoofs. One ritzy family had a show rig to which the horses were hitched in tandem driven by a coachman with a cockaded silk hat, silver-buttoned green coat, white cravat and white breeches. His gloved hands, poised at the correct angle, held a beribboned whip, tipped with a gaily colored tassel.

Once every month or so we would drive to the blacksmith shop where the smith, with his leather apron, his forge and bellow, would send sparks flying as he hammered the white-hot shoe on his anvil. Pungent fumes would steam off the horses hoof when he pressed the still hot shoe against it I would watch this with a feeling of anguish, but the horse never seemed to mind it. On one occasion, the smith circled a horse shoe nail

the point of his nail, fashioning a finger ring for me that I treasured for a long, long time.

* * *

My father, William Edward Baldwin, as you know, was a printer during his earlier years. Our grandfather had given him a small job printing press in his youth -- a foot treadle affair. He set up shop in Mannsville and turned out handbills, cards and business stationary. He soon started to print a "newspaper," The Ellisburgh Advertiser, a four-page, 7 1/2" x 11" monthly; subscription price, 25 cents a year.

Item from the issue of June 1879:

"The bandwagon being built for our band By William Baldwin is now progressing finely and will be out soon."

Advertisement: "A good all-wool suit of clothes for $8.00."

Father used his columns to boost his own business, too, for another advertisement lists law blanks, note paper, envelopes and stationary -- all to be had "at lowest rates" at W.

E. Baldwin's. Father moved to Syracuse some years before I was born and built up a fairly substantial printing business. I remember its distinctive smell of paper and printer's ink, its clanking flat bed presses, the "kerchunk, kerchunk" of the smaller job presses with the pressmen nimbly taking out a sheet with one hand and inserting a blank one with the other in the split second when the press jaws parted. I remember Jo Lephram, the head pressman, with his gold-rimmed glasses and bushy mustache, trying to teach me to handset type in a printer's "stick" even though I was only 10 years old or so. I remember the metallic sound of the quoins as the key turned them to wedge the bed of type tightly into the chase or iron frame, later to be locked into the press.

The thriving carriage industry kept father printing catalogs ... primitive forerunners of the impressive, full-color automobile catalogs of later years which I, as an advertising man, labored to produce. And, at one time, he was printing many of the theater programs of upstate New York. One of them, he told me, contained a classic typographical error whereby the letter "F" appeared in place of the "P" in "Part I" of Madame Melba's recital at the Weiting Opera House. The printing business led to the purchase of the Syracuse Journal which vied with the Syracuse Herald for afternoon supremacy. Here my sister Lucille during her college years served as a society reporter and here she met George Martin Van Slyke, also a northern New Yorker, spending his college summers as a cub reporter. Later, of course, his by line was a familiar one on the front page political articles of the New York Herald and then the New York Sun. Indirectly this brought another newspaperman into the family, for my sister Laura married George's best man, John N. Harmon, editor and publisher of the Brooklyn Times. It was George who turned my own steps into the newspaper field, for he persuaded a friend on the Buffalo Courier to apprentice me to the "profession".

I remember, too, one night when my father apparently had been summoned to the Journal plant to get out an "extra" announcing the assassination of President William McKinley at the 1901 Pan-American Exposition. He took me along in the buggy. I remember filching an armful of papers from the roaring pressroom (I was only nine years old) and stealing out to the thronged downtown streets to reap a harvest of pennies while father probably was frantically searching high and low for his lost boy.

This, I'll have you know, was not my only link with some of our presidents of the United States. Only a year or two later my father had me on the platform in downtown

Syracuse when President Teddy Roosevelt delivered an oration. Afterward, he included me in the handshaking and I still can see his leathery skin, his moustache, his thick glasses and the famous TR array of teeth. Of course in after years as a reporter I had close-ups of the jovial William Howard Taft, a mountain of a man, and of the scholarly Woodrow Wilson, on whose presidential campaign train I spent two fascinating days.

... Well, like the man who jumped on his horse and cantered off in four different directions, these ramblings somehow have drifted to all points of the compass. Let's get back to the main road -- the path which the Baldwin line has followed from the earliest records down to you. You'll find the Baldwin name in early documents long before the path becomes clear -- at least two hundred years, in fact, before Egbert of Wessex united the kingdom under his overlordship to become the first King of England in 827 A. D. It's not surprising that early records were sketchy, for true surnames as hereditary designations did not become common in England until the tenth or eleventh century. But you'll find mentions of Baldwins in various spellings -- Bawdewyn, Baldwyn, Baldwen, Bawdwin and Baldwin -- back as far as 672 A. D. There were Baldwins who were Earls of Flanders at the time of Alfred the Great who overcame the Danes in 878 A. D. and other Baldwins crop up during the reigns of the Plantagenets and the Lancasters. Our direct line doesn't start to come into focus, however until the days of Henry VIII. At that time there was a Sir John Baldwin of Bucks County who was chief justice of the Common Pleas of England from 1536 to 1545 when he died. His will mentions a number of Baldwins whose relationship to him is uncertain. But one of these sons, nephews or brothers or what-have-you, is your great-great-great-great-great-great-great-great-grandfather, Richard Baldwin. This Richard Baldwin was known as Richard of Donrigge because the will bequeathed him part of the parish of Dundridge or "Donrigge." His son also was named Richard but was know as Richard of Cholesbury because the elder Richard gave him lands in Cholesbury. To the younger Richard was born Joseph Baldwin -- later to become known as Joseph of Milford -- who fathered the direct line of American Baldwins leading down to you. When this Joseph was less than 30 years old, during the reign of Charles I, increasing numbers of people, including a number of Baldwins from County Bucks and other adjoining counties, were emigrating from England to the American colonies. Many of these pioneers were rebelling against the persecution of the prelates of the Church of England whose tenets they were unwilling to accept.

The events which led to the founding of the town of Milford began in May 1637 when the "Hector" sailed from London to Boston with a group under the leadership of John Davenport and Theophilus Eaton. Five weeks later another ship carried a group headed by the Rev. Peter Prudden.

The new arrivals stayed in the Massachusetts Bay Colony for almost a year, but the Rev. Prudden and John Davenport desired to found their own colony. They decided to lead their followers to the Connecticut wilderness after listening to accounts of this region brought back to them by Theophilus Eaton who had made an exploratory journey.

In April

1638 the group took passage on a ship, sailing through Long Island Sound to the mouth of the river on which a small colony had established the settlement of New Haven.

Here they eventually were joined by newly arrived friends from England, including Joseph Baldwin. They cleared land, built rude dwellings and planted crops as part of the New Haven colony but looked forward to founding a settlement of their own.

Some ten months later five of their group journeyed some miles westward along the Long Island shore to the mouth of the Wepammug River to negotiate for land with the Paugussett Indians who had a village on its banks. On February 12, 1639, the five entered into a ceremonial with Ansantawae, sachem of the tribe, and purchased what became the site of Milford. The price was "six coats, ten blankets, one kettle, twelve hatchets, twelve hoes, two dozen knives and one dozen small mirrors." The Paugussets sold the land in the hope they would enlist English protection against the Mohawks who were continually raiding their territory.

The five negotiators made their way back to the New Haven settlement. In a barn which they used as a meeting place, the forty or more who intended moving to Wepawaug (or Milford as it later was named) laid their plans and formed the First Church of Milford.

Joseph Baldwin undoubtedly attended these meetings as one of the founders for his name appears on the original land plots of the new town.

With their land purchased, their church organized, the main body of the Rev. Prudden's followers migrated from New Haven in the late summer of that year, 1639. One account states "they followed the devious Indian footpath, driving their cattle and other domestic animals before them, while their household and farming utensils and the materials for the 'common house' were taken around by water. "Arriving safely, they built a few rude huts for temporary residence and immediately began clearing the land. At the first "town meeting" held on November 20, 1639, Joseph and 43 other church members were granted the franchise as "free planters." The following summer of 1640 roads were laid along the banks of the river and 41 plots of about three acres each were staked out. Joseph Baldwin and his wife, Hannah Whitlock, settled on one of these plots and thus became known as Joseph of Milford. Life was one of arduous toil. Each of the settlers had to be a jack-of-all-trades, felling timber, milling it, building his home, planting his crops, tilling and harvesting them. In this primitive and rigorous way of life, Joseph and his wife reared four children. There also were other Baldwins in Connecticut, undoubtedly related more or less distantly to Joseph, for they, too, had emigrated from neighboring counties around Bucks in England, but the descendants of Joseph of Milford and Hannah Whitlock alone were so prolific that more than 3,000 of them are listed in C. C. Baldwin's History of the Baldwin family. Next in our direct line, however, is Joseph of Milford's son, who like his father was given the name of Joseph. This second Joseph married Sarah Coley of Milford. Before his death at the age of 41, she bore him nine children. One of the daughters, incidentally, so the records relate, was admonished by the court in 1677 for "wearing silk in a flaunting manner to the offense of sober people, contrary to law." Joseph's and Sarah's nine children included one son, born in 1663, who likewise was given the name of Joseph. This third-generation Joseph settled eventually in Malden, Mass., and married Elizabeth Grover, who before his death on November 22, 1714, bore him twelve children.

One of these children, David, born September 1, 1701, was the next of our great-grandfathers. He moved to Spencer, Mass., with his wife, Abigail Barr, when he was 39 years old. It is recorded that David was the architect of the Congregational Church of Spencer. David and his wife had a family of eight children. One of the daughters, it is interesting to note, bore the odd name of Silence.

Of David's eight children, a son, Zebulon Baldwin, carried the descent one generation nearer to ours. He settled eventually in Vershire, Vermont, where he married Hannah Lyon. In 1763 a son, Jabez, was born.

It was Jabez Baldwin who with his wife and first children made the arduous trek from Massachusetts to the wilds of Oswego County, N.Y. The earliest settlers had built cabins in the Sandy Creek area only six years before. Sandy Creek records report his arrival with this simple statement: "Jabez Baldwin settled three miles west of the village in 1809." Much of the region south of the Thousand Islands was a trackless forest. Wild beasts reamed the woods.

The war of 1812, only three years later, kept the settlers in a state of terror for they were living in a route used for invasion by the British during the American Revolution. From the lake shore they could see enemy vessels as they engaged American ships. More than once, rumors that the British had landed spread confusion. Fears of Indian warfare swept the settlements.

In this background, Jabez and Hannah reared their family, including my great-grandfather Zebulon (whose big leather covered Bible I have). Four of the brothers alone in Sandy creek fathered no less than twenty-seven children -- so you can see the woods literally were full of Baldwins around the Sandy Creek region of those days.

Zebulon, my great-grandfather, married Betsey Clark on May 20, 1821. They had five sons and one daughter, all born in Sandy Creek. One of them, of course, was your great-grandfather William Baldwin, born October 21, 1825.

This first William Baldwin (that is, the first of the Williams whose name descended without break through my father, through me, through you to your son) married Harriet

Ann Hughson October 18, 1851. He died February 5, 1888. Their two children were my father, William Edward Baldwin, born February 19, 1857, in Mannsville, and his sister, my aunt Abbie Adelia Baldwin, born November 6, 1862.

My father married Hannah Jeannette Fish (whose younger sister was named Minnie Fish because she was the littlest) October 15, 1878. Father died in Buffalo September 28, 1934, and mother, as you know, only a few months after you and Lucy were married in 1941.

Then came: Harriet Lucille Baldwin, born September 28, 1879, in Mannsville; Laura Jeannette Baldwin, born January 1, 1885 in Syracuse, and me, William Marsh

Baldwin, born March 26, 1892.

On September 2, 1913, I married Mabel Jeannette Johns in Buffalo, N.Y. (bless her heart) and on December 11, 1915, along come, guess who ---- William Marsh Baldwin junior. Well, to complete the record --- so far: William Marsh Baldwin junior married

Lucy Ann Webb of Cleveland, Ohio, on July 12, 1941. Their children:

Christopher Webb Baldwin, born April 16, 1943

William Marsh Baldwin III, born January 29, 1945

Nicholas Johns Baldwin, born August 11, 1947

Victoria Baldwin, born June 2, 1950.

And that's all I know about the Baldwins. You can take it from here.

Subject: Holidays etc.

It's been a while since I communicated last and now seems to be an appropriate time to write a note. Thank you so much for so many things this past year. Your Christmas greeting arrived and I was glad to hear from you. Thanks onece again for your kind hospitality on my memorable trip in September! I treasure the memories of meeting you both and I will find a way to keep these wonderful contacts open! I hope you are all well and that you have some family with you over the holidays.

I haven't been devoting the time I should to genealogy research since Thanksgiving. I guess I was "companied" out for a few days. Now my step son Adam has been so kind as to fly out here and keep me company over Christmas. He arrived today at our busy, busy airport and will stay until New Years Eve day:

I ran across what seems to be a minor problem. I've been in contact with the man doing the Y chromosome DNA studies. He sent me a summery of the data he had on the John Lawrence Family of Michigan. There are a number of errors I found in his data but one item is perplexing! He lists Russell Johnson Lawrence's wife as Lucinda THORNSON, not Thompson. This is the same name on some of my father's records. He cites the census of 1870 and 1880 showing that Lucinda was lving in Avon, Oakland County, Michigan. Is there any chance that the name Thompson was read incorrectly by the census taker? I jut want to make sure we have the correct name. Since I do not have the census available for those two periods of time, I cannot double check this issue through the census. What do you think? I'll try to run it down with my internet contacts as well.

Take care over the holidays and my the good Lord keep you both safe and well this coming year. MERRY CHRISTMAS!

I have been to the archives finding our maternal grandmothers mothers brother! Hans Peter Thomsen, born 1865 , left Denmark in the Year ???, I went through all files over some years try to find him, from where and when he went to USA, best guess is about 1890.

He came to South Dakota, got a farm in Wolseu, near Huron.

At a time he sold the farm and went a bit around, f.ex also to Hot Spring Arkansas, where i have a photo from there him sitting on a mule and another where he is sitting on a bull carriage together with a lady - whom she was we do not know, mayne a female doctor Ada Waley (I think) who later was mentioned in papers.

Hans Peter Thomsen (to us : "Morbror i Amerika - Uncle in Amerika) had to take the farm back. Was unlucky to be murdered in 1927 (I think) by one farm worker who later ended up in Yankton Hospital (Mental hospital?)

Hans Peter Thomsen is buried in Wolsey. The sherif's name was Larsen, very Danish.

Yes I'm very interested in family history, in immigration history and I was the one who borrowed the (few) letters kept from him, tried a find out something about him, the people mentioned after his death in the papers send to Denmark.

Funny to read the letters which are a good mixture of Danish and English and of course spelled not quite right.

I would like so much to come to South Dakota both to go to Wolsey but also all the other places of interest: Mpunt Rushmore, Crazy Horse, The four Presidents, Wounded Knee and so on.

But Now ...! Time for ending this letter (I have been off for some time!)

I hope I could help with at least some adresses, but all in all: The name of the Parish whee one is born, married, death -or the parish one was living in when leaving Denmark is important.

Best wishes from Britta Pedersen (Flemmings sister, born 1951)

Dear Mr. Robert L. Jackson,
 I'm sister to the Danish baker Flemming in Henderson and have got the letter from you about your family from the Danish side.

I have a lot of commends - but maybe not so many answers - but will try to write something (and because i'm writing from my job I maybe suddenly will have to close, and start om a new letter later)

But ... First: You are right about names changed to a more English way if saying the names.
 Surname f.ex Long time ago a surname was the fathers first name + "son" or "daughter" in the end.
 Our fathers name was Svend Pedersen, which could have led to ...
 Flemming Svenssøn or Britta Svensdatter (Søn = son and datter = daughter) At a time everybody becamesen, so Pedersen in my/our case.
 When a Pedersen moves to a English speaking country it will often be Pederson --> Petersson maybe, Nielson--> Nelson, Sørensen --> Sorensen/Sorenson.
 Just remember the one who made the speeches for John F. Kennedy was Ted Sorenson (or Sorensen)

So in your family the first name Jens maybe became James, Louis became Ludwig (which seems German to me!)

And birthplace can be mixed up.

You mentioned the place ULSTED, 2 places in Denmark are called Ulsted, only one place with a church - the name of the parish is very important, I f.ex are born in Sorø as Flemming and our sister Alice, but because of the adress where our parents lived, are we registered in the book for the Church parish Lynge.

Now Ulsted is in Jutland, but talking about Sorø my best guess will be that the place is not Ulsted but ALSTED!!

But finding out of anything: Which church parish are the different family members born in???
 Several churches around Sorø and Sorø itself.
 Some adresses - but not many E-mail addresses:

Richard III, King of England (1452-1485)

Richard Rex

Ricardus Rex. From The Paston Letters.
Craik's Pictorial History of England, 1841 v 2, p 130.

RICHARD III, King of England, youngest son of Richard, Duke of York, by Cicely Neville, was born at Fotheringhay on the 2nd of October 1452. After the Second Battle of St. Albans in February 1461, his mother sent him with his brother George for safety to Utrecht. They returned in April, and at the coronation of Edward IV, Richard was created Duke of Gloucester. As a mere child he had no importance till 1469-1470, when he supported his brother against Warwick, shared his exile and took part in his triumphant return.

He distinguished himself at Barnet and Tewkesbury; according to the Lancastrian story, after the latter battle he murdered the young Edward of Wales in cold blood; this is discredited by the authority of Warkworth (Chronicle, p. 18); but Richard may have had a share in Edward's death during the fighting. He cannot be so fully cleared of complicity in the murder of Henry VI, which probably took place at the Tower on the night of the 21-22 of May, when Richard was certainly present there. Richard shared to the full in his brother's prosperity. He had large grants of lands and office, and by marrying Anne (1456-1485), the younger daughter of Warwick, secured a share in the Neville inheritance. This was distasteful to George, Duke of Clarence, who was already married to the elder sister, Isabel.

The rivalry of the two brothers caused a quarrel which was never appeased. Richard does not, however, seem to have been directly responsible for the death of Clarence in 1478; Sir Thomas More, who is a hostile witness, says that he resisted it openly "howbeit somewhat (as men deemed) more faintly than he that were heartily minded to his wealth." Richard's share of the Neville inheritance was chiefly in the north, and he resided usually at Middleham in Yorkshire. In May 1480 he was made the king's lieutenant-general in the north, and in 1482 commanded a successful invasion of Scotland. His administration was good, and brought him well-deserved popularity. On Edward's death he was kept informed of events in London by William, Lord Hastings, who shared his dislike of the Woodville influence.

On the 29th of April 1483, supported by the Duke of Buckingham, he intercepted his nephew Edward V at Stony Stratford and arrested Lord Rivers and Richard Grey, the little king's half-brother. It was in Richard's charge that Edward was brought to London on the 4th of May. Richard was recognized as protector, the Woodville faction was overthrown, and Queen Elizabeth Woodville with her younger children took sanctuary at Westminster. For the time the government was carried on in Edward's name, and the 22nd of June was appointed for his coronation. Richard was nevertheless gathering forces and concerting with his friends. In the council there was a party, of whom Hastings and Bishop Morton were the chief, which was loyal to the boy-king. On the 13th of June came the famous scene when Richard appeared suddenly in the council baring his withered arm and accusing Jane Shore and the Queen of sorcery; Hastings, Morton and Stanley were arrested and the first-named at once beheaded. A few days later, probably on the 25th of June, Rivers and Grey were executed at Pontefract. On the 22nd of June Dr Shaw was put up to preach at Paul's Cross against the legitimacy of the children of Edward IV. On the 25th a sort of parliament was convened at which Edward's marriage was declared invalid on the ground of his precontract with Eleanor Talbot, and Richard rightful king. Richard, who was not present, accepted the crown with feigned reluctance, and from the following day began his formal reign.

On the 6th of July Richard was crowned at Westminster, and immediately afterwards made a royal progress through the Midlands, on which he was well received. But in spite of its apparent success the usurpation was not popular. Richard's position could not be secure whilst his nephews lived. There seems to be no reasonable doubt that early in August Edward V and his brother Richard (whom Elizabeth Woodville had been forced to surrender) were murdered by their uncle's orders in the Tower. Attempts have been made to clear Richard's memory. But the report of the princes' death was believed in England at the time, "for which cause king Richard lost the hearts of the people" (Chronicles of London, 191), and it was referred to as a definite fact before the French states-general in January 1484. The general, if vague, dissatisfaction found its expression in Buckingham's rebellion. Richard, however, was fortunate, and the movement collapsed. He met his only parliament in January 1484 with some show of triumph, and deserves credit for the wise intent of its legislation. He could not, however, stay the undercurrent of disaffection, and his ministers, Lovell and Catesby, were unpopular.

His position was weakened by the death of his only legitimate son in April 1484. His queen died also a year later (March 16, 1485), and public opinion was scandalized by the rumour that Richard intended to marry his own niece, Elizabeth of York. Thus the feeling in favour of his rival Henry Tudor strengthened. Henry landed at Milford Haven on the 7th of August 1485, and it was with dark forebodings that Richard met him at Bosworth on the 22nd. The defection of the Stanleys decided the day cf. [Lord Stanley]. Richard was killed fighting, courageous at all events. After the battle his body was carried to Leicester, trussed across a horse's back, and buried without honour in the church of the Greyfriars.

Richard was not the villain that his enemies depicted. He had good qualities, both as a man and a ruler, and showed a sound judgment of political needs. Still it is impossible to acquit him of the crime, the popular belief in which was the chief cause of his ruin. He was not a monster; but a typical man in an age of strange contradictions of character, of culture combined with cruelty, and of an emotional temper that was capable of high ends, though unscrupulous of means. Tradition represents Richard as deformed. It seems clear that he had some physical defect, though not so great as has been alleged. John Stow told Buck that old men who remembered Richard described him as in bodily form comely enough. Extant portraits show an intellectual face characteristic of the early Renaissance, but do not indicate any deformity.

INFROMATION ON OUR DANISH HERITAGE

Chef Flemming Petterson, owner of the European bakery on Water Street in Henderson, mother and sister still live in Denmark and, as it turns out, in the same town area as our ancesters that immigrated to America in the middle of the nineteenth century.

Flemming suggested I contact his sister via E mail to see who I might contact there that might know about the roots of our Family. She sent back the following information:

E Mail: KOES@KM.DK

(Church) AKADEM; GRUNDEN 4, dk 4180, SOROS, DK

Regarding Ulstad, also a possible source of information on our roots, she suggested the following:

www.Lynge. Dk

The minister of the church mentioned above in Soro is Kristian Destergaard who could probably be a better source of search info.

I do not have time to follow through on this information but good luck to you if you accept the task!!!
